No Change In Council

All Councilmen Seeking Re-Election Successful

There apparently is no change in the city administration from the results of the city election Tuesday. All Council candidates seeking re-election weathered the storm and reports indicate it is unlikely there will be any change as a result of the big absentee vote which was registered.

Re-elected were James "Salty" Schumaker, First Ward; Roland "Doc" Snavely, Second Ward; Ray Simons, Third Ward, all Democrats; and George H. Miller, Fourth Ward, Republican. This gives the Democrats the same five to three in the Council with Mayor Ralph Walker, Republican.

Schumaker defeated Orville Gott, Republican, 405 to 270 with 100 absentees to be counted. Snavely defeated his Republican opponent, B. J. Mecum, 320 to 231, with 160 absentees to be counted. Simons was victor over Republican Carl H. Landes, 471 to 416, with 181 absentees to be counted. Miller won with 408 votes over Lloyd C. "Chinie" Kennon, Democrat, who received 322 votes and W. K. "Kenny" Schilb, Independent, who received 157 votes. There are 81 absentee votes in the Fourth Ward.

Probably the only close race will result in the Third Ward between Simons and Landes, which has the greatest absentee vote, and Simons holding a 55 vote majority at the close of the polls. Landes would have to get more than 126 of the 181 absentees to win. Tuesday night Simons said he was almost sure of having at least 73 of the absentees and possibly a few more, which would assure him of re-election.

As for Snavely, he holds a lead of 89 votes with 160 absentees, of which Mecum would have to collect 148 to win, and this is most unlikely. Snavely has well over 60 absentees according to reports.

Ralph Dedrick, city clerk, said Tuesday night the counting of the absentees would begin at 9 a.m. Thursday to be followed by the official count that afternoon.

In the Sedalia School District 200, C. W. "Bud" Hurtt was re-elected, receiving 1,760 votes. Dr. Robert Thompson, local dentist, received the second highest vote of 1,409, to win over Dave Martin with 1,141, who sought re-election. James Steele, the fourth candidate for the school board received 732 votes.

The school levy of $1.37 in excess of the $1.00 was passed by nearly a three-to-one vote. The vote for the levy was 2,081 and against 746.

Rename Scott Mayor For Knob Noster

R. M. Scott was re-elected mayor of Knob Noster in the election held Tuesday for a two year term, receiving 135 votes, his opponent, Ed Vaughn receiving 102 votes.

Mrs. Margaret Patrick was re-elected city collector with 214 votes, Charles Norman was re-elected city marshal with 214 votes.

Aldermen elected for two years were as follows: First Ward, Charles Cunningham, write-in votes 48 over Elmer Rehkop, incumbent, 22 votes; H. A. Wimer and Bill Turner both one write-in; Second Ward, Morris Rigdon, 45; over Bill Schouten; Third Ward, Wallace Jenkins, 38, over Lloyd Franklin, 22.

The five cent increase in tax levy for fire department purposes for four years passed 177 for and 58 against.

In the Board of Education were Charles Henderson 93, Dale Everts 94, with two write-ins, Arthur Norman, 2 and B. E. Carr 1.

Johnson County School Superintendent, Ora Shaw, 93; County Board of Education, G. C. Simmons, 89, two write-ins, Jack Young, 1 and Davis Demers, 2.

School levy $2, the same as last year, 93 for and four against.

Ralph Sullins Is New Mayor Of California

Ralph Sullins was re-elected mayor of California in Tuesday's city election there. Sullins won out over Arthur Baker, 460-335.

Results in the aldermanic reces are as follows:

Ward 1 — Lloyd Baker, unopposed, 138.

Ward 2 — Robert Scherff, 122; J. E. Ford, 115.

Ward 3 — Gene Hill, 204; Ray Eckert, 195.

Richard Chambers was relected city marshal with 109 votes. He was unopposed. Mrs. Margaret York, unopposed, was re-elected city collector with 719 votes.

In the California R-I school election, the levy carried. Truman Hartman and Harry Minturn were elected directors for the district.

Government Moves

Milk Price Hearings Seen As Victory For NFO Action

CORNING, Iowa (AP) — Regional government hearings to review prices paid dairy farmers for fluid milk have been hailed by the National Farmers Organization as a moral victory for the NFO.

"This is the first significant move the government has made since we started our milk withholding action three weeks ago," said NFO President Oren Lee Staley.

From NFO national headquarters here, Staley has directed a drive to keep milk off the markets until farmers get two cents more a quart from processors.

The order which came out of Washington Tuesday referred to pressures brought by various farm organizations and members, including leaders of the National Grange.

The Agriculture Department announced four regional public hearings next week to review the prices handlers pay farmers for fluid milk sold under marketing milk orders.

The department said some milk dealers also asked for the hearings which will be held at Denver April 11; St. Louis April 12; Cleveland April 13, and Washington April 14.

While the government sets minimum producer prices paid under marketing orders, this was not a procedure asked by the NFO when it launched its holding action.

The NFO seeks to bargain directly with processors on terms calling for a two cents a quart increase for the producers.

Staley said the NFO has declined to go along with Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman's proposal for government production payments.

"We think farmers should get their price in the market place, the same as everybody else does," he said.

Election Roundup

Some Bond Issues Passed; Fire Station Is Approved

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Only one out of four bond issues voted on Tuesday at Boonville was successful.

A proposal for $95,000 to acquire land for a new fire station and fire equipment was approved 1,514 to 634.

The bond proposals defeated: $135,000 for a new road from the west side of the city to Interstate 70 business loop; $55,000 for land and remodeling of the city hall; and $85,000 for acquiring more property and improving the city's airport.

In other elections around the state:

Marshall—Approved $1.9 million general obligation bond issue and $1 million revenue bond issue to remedy existing deficiencies in sewer system. A federal grant of $909,600 will take care of part of the general obligation bond.

Carthage — Defeated $25,000 bond issue to improve parks. Also turned down proposal to boost city tax levy by 10 cents per $100 valuation ot help finance a city ambulance service. Two Democratic incumbents were defeated for reelection to city commission. All those named in a five-seat race are Republicans.

Joplin — Approved a 7-cent school levy increase, the money to be used mainly for teacher salaries. Mrs. John Sohosky Jr. and Dr. Robert C. Cable re-elected to school board.

Macon—Macon County voters approved $450,000 bond issue for construction of a nursing home to be built in city of Macon.

Jefferson City—Approved annexation of 1,600 acres west of city and voted to increase school levy from present $2.49 per $100 valuation to $2.75. Police Judge McCormick V. Wilson and C. A. Watt, the city assessor, re-elected. Four contested seats on city council won by Democrats.

Municipal Meet Set In Marshall

Municipal legislation and annexation will be the major topics of discussion at a meeting of mid-western Missouri municipal officials in Marshall April 20, at 7 p.m. Officials invited represent cities in Regional Division VI of the Missouri Municipal League.

In announcing the meeting, Mayor Ralph Walker of Sedalia, president of the division, said that at least 75 mayors, councilmen and other officials are expected to attend the evening session at McKays Wings Restaurant in the Marshall city airport. Marshall officials, headed by Mayor Gerald Leach, are in charge of arrangements.

Principal speakers at the meeting will be Jay T. Bell, Executive Director, Missouri Municipal League and George Nickolaus, Legal Specialist in Governmental Affairs, University of Missouri. Nickolaus will discuss his recently published booklet, Annexation in Missouri, and answer questions of officials in attendance about city annexation problems.

Current legislative measures affecting cities either favorably or adversely will be analyzed by Bell. Officials attending the meeting will discuss the impact of several bills of municipal interest which have special interest to area communities.

According to Walker, "The meeting will offer an excellent opportunity to get a broad perspective on the problems facing Missouri cities and the way legislation may relieve or aggravate them. Also, we are looking forward to learning more about municipal annexation problems and procedures."

Regional officers in addition to President Walker include Vice-President Gerald Leach, mayor, Marshall, and Secretary Gordon H. Drake, mayor, Warsaw.

The Missouri Municipal League is the state-wide organization representing and serving 328 cities, towns, and villages in Missouri.

Asks Postal Rate Increase, Federal Worker Pay Boost

People In Armed Forces Included In LBJ Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today for postal rate increases totaling $800 million and for a three-step pay increase of some $2.5 billion for all federal employes and members of the armed forces.

In a special message, Johnson recommended that the cost of mailing letters be increased by 1 cent. The charge for first-class mail would go to 6 cents and an air mail stamp would cost 9 cents.

The President also called for increases in all other postal rates.

Johnson proposed that the government's 2.5 million civilian employes, and members of the armed forces, be given an average pay increase of 4.5 per cent effective Oct. 1.

In addition, he called for further increases on Oct. 1, 1968, and Oct. 1, 1969, for civilian workers.

Johnson said that would make federal salaries comparable with those in private industry and, "with a similar increase for the armed forces, the cost would be more than $2.5 billion per year."

The chief executive talked about the desirability of putting federal salaries on a par with private pay as soon as possible.

He added, however: "In view of today's fiscal and economic conditions, my advisers inform me that a pay raise of this magnitude would not be prudent."

For that reason, he proposed the three-stage increases that would not take full effect until Oct. 1, 1969.

Battle Over Latin Aid Resolution

GOP Spearheading Fight To Rescue Johnson Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan battle over President Johnson's proposed Latin-American aid resolution is under way in the Senate, with a Republican spearheading a drive to rescue the measure.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., introduced legislation Tuesday night to restore the resolution to a form nearly identical to that sought by Johnson and already passed by the House.

His move came shortly after assistant Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana suggested it might be wise to "just sidetrack" the resolution.

Long's position was endorsed by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen. Cooper's stance drew support from Sens. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

As originally written and explained by Johnson, the resolution offered — without specifying the sum — some $1.5 billion in additional aid to the 19 members of the Alliance for Progress.

The President made it clear he wanted a stamp of congressional approval on the measure when he attends the summit meeting of American chiefs of state in Punta del Este, Uruguay, April 12-14.

Johnson viewed the pledge as a spur to development of a Latin-American common market.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, shying away from a precommitment of financial aid, changed the House-approved version to specify Congress would have the final say in allocating more money south of the border.

White House sources have termed the committee's version "worse than useless" to the President. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., has suggested failure to get what was asked could embarrass Johnson at the hemispheric meeting.

Fairly Clean Accident Toll For Sedalia

Sedalia is maintaining a fairly clear accident record this year, but three fatalities mar the over-all picture, according to Clarence Harrell, traffic officer at the Sedalia police department.

Figures released by Harrell Wednesday indicate that three deaths have been attributed to the city this year, compared to one for the first three-months period in 1966.

Police officers have investigated 53 accidents in March alone this year, but this compares to 67 the same month last year. For the first three months of 1967, police records show 169 accidents investigated, compared to 184 in 1966. Records also show that in these accidents, 47 persons have been injured, seven less than last year.

To Examine Victims

LONDON (AP) — All pedestrians killed by cars on British roads are to be examined to find out if they had been drinking, the Home Office announced Tuesday night.

Last year the Home Office asked coroners to order blood alcohol tests on motorists and motorcyclists involved in fatal accidents.

Kennedy Scores Easy Win Over Johnson

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Kennedy scored an easy victory over Johnson in Tuesday's municipal elections in St. Louis.

In the 18th Ward, Samuel Kennedy, a Democrat, was elected to the Board of Aldermen over E. S. Johnson, a Republican, 1,961-292.

Talks Begin With German Chancellor

Humphrey Trip To Strengthen National Bonds

BONN (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey today opened the Johnson administration's first face-to-face talks with West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and said he came as a friend to strengthen bonds between the two nations.

Humphrey considers his talks with Kiesinger to be the key discussion of his two-week, fence-mending mission.

Kiesinger welcomed Humphrey as a representative of a country with close ties to Germany and a country whose aid after World War II would never be forgotten by Germans.

The chancellor, who since taking office four months ago has leaned closer to France than the United States, said the Atlantic Alliance has stood the test of time and "I am sure it will stand the test of the future."

Kiesinger said his government is willing to do anything to strengthen the alliance, and Humphrey called Kiesinger's word reassuring.

In his attache case Humphrey carried a call for unity to calk the leaking seams of the Atlantic Alliance. He was expected to hit the unity theme hard in two days of discussions with Kiesinger and members of his government.

The vice president's itinerary also included a visit to West Berlin.

Chief among the troubles between Washington and Bonn are West Germany's unhappiness over some provisions of the proposed treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons and the foreign exchange drain resulting from the stationing of American and British troops in West Germany.

Nine Killed In Cornell Fire Today

Eight Students, Faculty Advisor Perish In Blaze

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) —Eight students and a faculty adviser at Cornell University perished today and 10 persons were injured in a predawn fire that heavily damaged a 15-year-old dormitory.

The dead students were six women and two men. The adviser was male. The injured, eight of them women students, suffered from smoke inhalation. None was considered in serious condition.

Scores of others escaped through windows and doors. Some evidently tried to use sheet ropes, and the sheets were left dangling.

The bodies, found in bedrooms, hallways and a lobby, were taken to a university morgue. They were not identified immediately.

One of the first policemen on the scene told reporters no fire was visible from the outside but "people were hanging out of all the windows."

University Provost Dale R. Corson said the two-store, brick building, on the edge of the city, housed 70 persons, many of them members of the freshmen class of a six-year experimental course for top-flight students seeking doctorates. They and faculty advisers slept on the first floor and in the basement. Graduate and senior women lived on the top floor.

Corson said three of the dead —two men and one woman— were in the freshman class. The other five students, all women, were seniors or graduate students at the university.

Corson scheduled a memorial service for 2 p.m., EST, Friday at Sage Chapel. He expressed the university's "shock and grief."

The cause of the fire was not determined. Firemen said it apparently broke out in the basement.

About 100 firemen fought the flames, discovered shortly after 4 a.m. Most of the damage was caused by smoke, the sheriff's office said.

The building, known as the Cornell Heights Residential Club, is in the village of Cayuga Heights, bordering this central New York city.

Students said no parties or other activities were known to have been scheduled Tuesday night. Sgt. Arthur Graham of the campus police told reporters he found people hanging out the windows. He entered to help their escape.

Horizontal panes, plus shutters, on the modern building hampered their escape.

The stairwell areas were gutted.

The only person reported seriously injured was a graduate student, Miss Laura E. Levine of Brooklyn, N.Y. She suffered from smoke inhalation.

In Viet Nam

Record Surge Of Defectors

SAIGON (AP) — An all-time high of 5,557 Viet Cong deserted last month and came over to the allied side, U.S. officials announced today.

The record surge of defectors was nearly double the previous record of 2,917 Viet Cong who deserted in February under the South Vietnamese government's open arms program.

The mounting wave of enemy defections was announced as the ground war in South Vietnam simnered in small, scattered patrol clashes and bad weather returned to North Vietnam, curtailing U.S. air strikes after the heaviest raids in five months Monday.

U.S. and allied forces reported killing 75 of the enemy in scattered contacts Tuesday. Units of the South Korean Capital Division claimed 41 Viet Cong killed in the nine patrol skirmishes and said there were no Korean casualties.

In an unusual encounter, a two-man U.S. reconnaissance unit spotted and engaged about 10 Viet Cong troops who were acting as a screening force for a larger enemy unit of about 40 men. The two U.S. soldiers, with help from the rest of their patrol, killed nine Viet Cong in a surprise attack 33 miles southwest of the coastal city of Tuy Hoa, a U.S spokesman said.

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 33 Viet Cong in four small contacts.

The U.S. Air Force charged that ground fire from the middle of a North Vietnamese village brought down an F105 Thunderchief Sunday. The loss of the plane, the 500th downed over North Vietnam in the war, had been announced Tuesday. The followup Air Force announcement apparently was intended to show that the Communists position some of their antiaircraft guns in the center of populated areas and that civilian casualties therefore cannot be avoided.

The ground fire from the middle of the village was reported by the U.S. pilot flying wingman for the Thunderchief that was shot down. Repeated attempts were made to pick up the downed flier by helicopter, but all failed and he was listed as missing.

The surge of 5,557 Viet Cong defectors during March raised the total for 1967 to 10,746, or nearly double the rate last year, U.S. officials said. The number of "open arms" defectors in the first three months of last year was 5,521.

In the last week of March, up to last Saturday, 1,000 Viet Cong defected to the government side. Of these, U.S. officials said, 630 were Viet Cong soldiers, 301 were political cadre and 69 were "miscellaneous" Viet Cong adherents.

A spokesman for the U.S. mission reported that the total of

Ernest Knipp Is Unopposed For Mayor In Tipton

Running unopposed, Ernest G. Knipp was elected mayor of Tipton with 448 votes in Tuesday's city election there. He succeeds Dr. H. P. Stonner who had served as mayor for six years and did not seek re-election.

In the race for marshal-collector, incumbent Orville Arnold won over Martin Battles, 325-308.

Ted Knipp, unopposed, was elected councilman from the West Ward with 236 votes. Joe F. Scott, unopposed, was elected from the East Ward with 210 votes. Both men will serve two-year terms.

In the Moniteau County R-6 school election, which includes Tipton, Fortuna and Syracuse, the school levy of $3 per $100 assessed valuation was approved, 167-25.

Roy J. Johansen, Syracuse, running unopposed was elected a director with 167 votes. Monroe Uptergrove, Fortuna, also running unopposed was elected a director with 176 votes. Uptergrove is a new member on the board. The two men will serve three-year terms.

Powell's Fate Known By Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Dist. Court Judge George L. Hart Jr. says he will decide by Friday whether the courts can tell Congress to seat Adam Clayton Powell — but his remarks seemingly offer little encouragement to the Harlem Democrat.

Hart heard oral arguments and offered comments and questions of his own during a preliminary hearing Tuesday in Powell's legal bid to regain the House seat he held for 22 years.

The federal judge said his decision would be made public Friday morning, four days before a special election is held to fill the now vacant seat from New York's Harlem district.

Powell was excluded from taking his seat in the 90th Congress by the House on March 1 after a special committee found him guilty of "gross misconduct." He filed suit March 9 to regain his seat.

A key issue is whether the courts have jurisdiction to consider administrative actions of the legislative branch of the government.

Bruce Bromley, attorney for the House, told Hart the judge had no more power to order Powell seated than Congress had to tell him how to decide cases.

Bromley said no court anywhere has the authority to direct the way members of Congress vote.

Herbert O. Reid, a Howard University law professor who is one of Powell's attorneys, said the courts can review final actions of the House and said the Powell resolution was such a legislative action.

"We did not contend that the courts can supervise the seating of members," he said. "But we do say that if a member's rights have been violated or if the House's jurisdictional limits have been exceeded, the courts can and should act."

In discussing the separation of powers doctrine with Reid, Hart said: "The fundamental question of freedom itself depends on the separation of powers.

"If the courts arrogate to themselves the legislative power, or if the President arrogates to himself the legislative power or if the legislature arrogates to itself the judicial power, you have lost freedom. You no longer have it."

Later, Hart hinted the judiciary doesn't have the power to tell the legislative branch to take any action. He indicated that only the electorate can change the actions of Congress.

Four Children Die In Fire Of Home

MILLINGTON, Tenn. (AP) — Four boys, the oldest 6, died Tuesday in a fire at their home near this Memphis suburb.

Their mother, Tassieranne Jones, 38, had gone to a neighbor's home only moments before to borrow a bucket of water. Deputies said she had to be restrained from running back into the flaming house.

Killed were Sylvester Jones, 6; Jerry Louis and Terry Louis Jones, 4-year-old twins; and Calvin Lee Jones, 3. Five other brothers and sisters were attending school at the time.

Railroads Fined For Mail Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has fined nine railroads $127,500 since Jan. 1, charging them with delaying the mails, it was learned today.

The fines range from $2,500 against the Chicago & Eastern Illinois to $35,000 against the New York Central. The latest fine was $20,000 against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

A Post Office official said the fines were imposed after the department decided to "take a closer look at train schedules" in an effort to find out whether late arriving passenger trains were slowing mail deliveries.

The official was unable to say how the current fines compare with those imposed in past years because until Jan. 1 the railroads were fined by regional offices and records were not kept in Washington. The operation now is handled at Post Office headquarters.

Thirty-two railroad systems carry U.S. mail. Nearly all the mail the railroads carry is hauled on passenger trains. Railroads have complained recently that the disappearance of passenger train service has been the fault of the Post Office.

The railroads charge that the Post Office has been diverting mail from the trains and transferring it to trucks. The lines say that revenue from mail often means the difference between profit and loss in the operation of some passenger trains.

But the Post Office says the railroads have discontinued passenger trains, leaving it no alternative but to use highway transportation for mail. The department charges that the railroads in many cases have asked the Post Office to remove mail from trains.

Other fines levied since January are: Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, $10,000; Louisville & Nashville, $5,000. Missouri Pacific $15,000; Norfolk - Western, $10,000; St. Louis-San Francisco, $5,000, and Southern Pacific, $25,000.

The department has the power to impose fines against railroads when mail - carrying trains do not meet their posted schedules. The department considers a train late when it is 15 or more minutes tardy.

In the Burlington case, the Post Office notified the line Feb. 10 that its trains had been arriving late for several months and that if the record did not improve within the next four weeks, a fine would be imposed.

Carson Quits Show In Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson's resignation from the "Tonight" show apparently is a move to set up renegotiations of his $500,000-a-year contract with NBC, network sources indicated today. They said, "It seems like a question of more money."

The sources discounted reports that Carson, who quit Tuesday, claiming NBC breached his contract in the midst of a performers strike against ABC, CBS and NBC, wanted to abandon the program for personal appearances.

"That's not likely to be the issue," they said. "He's making plenty of personal appearances. It just seems he wants to renegotiate for more money." Carson was not available for comment.

Carson charged through his lawyer that NBC violated his contract by broadcasting reruns of his late-night shows since the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists struck the networks eight days ago. NBC countered that the contract permitted the reruns.

Negotiations to end the walkout remained at virtual standstill. The strike involves demands by AFTRA that base pay of more than 100 local newscasters at network-owned stations be increased to $325 weekly and that they receive higher commercial fees. The weekly base pay now is $300.

Carson, who has backed the strike, has three years to run on his contract.

A Carson tape was on the air again Tuesday night, but the chatter was about events on a Friday — the kind of out-dated references that the star has complained about in the reruns.

NBC acknowledged today, after announcing it "looks forward to Johnny's return," that it had signed comedian Bob Newhart to a long-term contract. He has been a frequent vacation substitute for Carson.

"Newhart's ratings were exceptionally good when he filled in," a network spokesman said, but he would not comment on the possibility he was being considered as replacement for Carson.

AFTRA's attempts to convince network craft unions to respect its picket lines gained some success Tuesday as Teamsters Union truckers refused to make deliveries at the networks' offices here.

The networks' motion picture cameramen voted Tuesday night to seek authorization for a sympathy strike from their international union, the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employes and Motion Picture Machine Operators. A spokesman said the membership was "unanimously prepared to stop work immediately."

The strike has clouded the fate of the telecast of the Oscar awards of the Motion Picture Academy, scheduled for ABC Monday night.

A decision will be withheld as long as possible but the academy's president, Arthur Freed, indicated the ceremony probably would be postponed unless the strike is resolved.

Freed said April 17 and April 24 were under consideration as alternate dates. "Under no circumstances would we expect anyone to cross a picket line," he told newsmen in Hollywood.

Bob Hope, often master of ceremonies of the Oscar show, said he would not perform if the strike continued.

Nunivak Island, now a national wildlife refuge, is the second largest island in Bering Sea.

SPEAKER—Henry C. Salveter of Third National Bank, was one of several speakers at a management workshop for small business held in Sedalia Tuesday. Salveter spoke on financial planning and analysis. Arthur J. Morgan, CPA, Sedalia, spoke on accounting and record keeping. About 35 persons attended the meeting. (Democrat-Capital photo)

'Fingerprint' Technique Developed

By FRANK CAREY

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A St. Louis scientist reported today he may have achieved an "exciting breakthrough" toward solving the riddle as to whether at least some human cancers are caused by viruses.

Dr. Maurice Green of St. Louis University said he had developed a technique for detecting cancer-virus ghostly "fingerprints" — in the absence of an intact virus itself — when applied to certain animal cancer tissues.

He said he is confident the technique can be used as the world's first direct test to determine whether one or more common disease viruses — such as those of the common cold, smallpox, chicken pox or warts — may also be among the causes of cancer.

He told about it in a report to a science writers' seminar sponsored by the American Cancer Society, and he amplified in an interview.

Green said the new virus-testing technique conceivably also could be applied to determining whether certain viruses occurring in animals — such as the SV40 (simian virus) of monkeys — play a role in causing human malignancies.

He gave this background:

Apparent validity of the test was demonstrated by using cancer tissue from rodents in which cancers had been experimentally induced by infecting them with human adenoviruses.

These latter viruses — common causers of severe colds and other respiratory illness in man — were shown a few years ago to be the first human viruses known to be capable of producing cancer, at least in newborn rodents. But as yet there is no proof that any of some 31 known adenoviruses can cause cancer in man. The same is true for all other viruses known to cause other diseases in man.

Green and his coworkers successfully demonstrated in the animal tests that a virus-induced cancer can be present even though the intact, whole virus cannot be detected in the cancer-suspect tissue. They could conclude this because they knew they were working with a known virus-induced cancer.

They found instead that the virus that induced the animal cancer left a kind of chemical-biological "fingerprint" in the form of a particular hybrid variety of DNA and RNA nucleic acids.

Now, in studies of human cancer tissue which began about two weeks ago, Green said, a search will be made for "fingerprints" of a variety of human and animal viruses deemed susceptible to the test.

Arkansas Toll Road Given No. 1 Priority

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Turnpike Authority gave a western Arkansas toll road No. 1 priority but said studies will be made on other routes.

The authority adopted a motion authorizing a feasibility study for at least part of the north-south corridor.

The State Highway Commission, which is advancing $100,000 to the authority for preliminary studies, must agree to the motion before work can begin.

Consulting firms have conducted one study of the western Arkansas corridor at a cost of $102,000 raised by local interests. The road would connect the Missouri and Louisiana borders.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, authority chairman, urged the group to give the road priority.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Last year you had something in your column from a person who was self-conscious around grief-stricken people and didn't know what to say when he made a condolence call. As I remember, you said, "Be brief. Say, 'I'm sorry,' and let your presence say the rest."

My father passed away last week and now I would like to add something to your advice. I would like to tell people what NOT to say.

Don't go up to a woman whose husband has just died and say, "You are still young and attractive. You will meet some nice man and get married again."

Don't say to the sons, "Now it's up to you to take care of your mother. You must take your father's place." No son can take his father's place in the life of his mother and it's dumb to suggest it.

Thank you, Ann, for letting me have my say.—STILL GRIEVING.

Dear S. G.: It's hard to believe people can be so insensitive. And the odd thing is that these lunkheads mean no harm. Forgive them, and learn from their mistakes.

Dear Ann Landers: I am sorry your column doesn't appear on the front page. What I have to say ought to be read by everyone who can read.

I have been married only a few months. The minute I returned from my honeymoon the women in the office began to ask me if I was pregnant yet. When I stayed home with the flu last week I received five calls from friends who said, "I will bet you are pregnant."

This morning I wore a tent-type dress which, as you know, is considered very fashionable. Three girls came over and asked if it was a maternity dress. Then the office manager came by and said, "The new styles are perfect for covering up pregnancy. You could be in the eighth month and nobody could see a thing."

What is wrong with these people? Why don't they mind their own business? Can you come up with an Ann Landers' type answer that will shut them up? —NOTHING TO ANNOUNCE.

Dear N. T. A.: Nothing will shut them up. For certain cloddish types, no question is too personal, no subject too delicate. No response is the best response. Silence can be deafening.

Dear Ann Landers: Usually your advice is right on the button, but recently you disappointed me. A young bride wrote and said she felt ill at ease calling her in-laws Mr. and Mrs. Jones. You suggested that she offer to call them either Mom and Dad Jones or by their first names.

I have been married for four years and I am still calling my husband's parents Mr. and Mrs. Jones simply because they have never asked me to call them anything else.

It is not up to the daughter- or son-in-law to make the first move. The in-laws should ask the new member of the family to call them mom and dad. This is a sign of acceptance. I feel very much an outsider, and I am certain that this is their way of letting me know I am just that. — UNACCEPTED

Dear Unaccepted: You are right. It is up to the in-laws to suggest that the new member of the family call them mother and dad, or by their first names. This is unquestionably a sign of acceptance and I hope your in-laws see this letter and hop to it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Waiting For Women One Of Life's Little Ordeals

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals to men is waiting for women.

It is particularly to husbands, who sometimes figure they spend the greater part of their married life waiting for their wives to do something or to get ready to go somewhere.

Actually, however, it isn't that bad. If a man is kept waiting by his wife for an average of only an hour a day, by the time of his golden wedding anniversary he will have wasted only two full years of his life in this manner.

Of course, a fellow could get a lot of constructive things done in two years. For example, he could:

1. Read the Harvard five-foot shelf of books forwards—and backwards.
2. Build a houseboat in the back yard.
3. Take a correspondence course and fit himself for a better job.
4. Learn how to become a pool shark.
5. Raise enough chinchillas in the basement to make his wife the most expensive fur coat in the neighborhood.

But since his waiting is spread over so many years, it usually results in nothing more productive than an ulcer.

The whole situation has its odd aspects. If a guy is courting a dame and she is late for a date, she apologizes all over the place.

And she doesn't keep him waiting the least bit, ordinarily, when he proposes. Her "yes" comes with such a breeze that he is likely to catch a cold.

But once women are married they start playing the waiting game. Not just this wife. Not just that wife. Not some wives. All wives.

They seem to feel that every time they keep their husband waiting it wins them another merit badge in heaven. Either that or it's their subconscious revenge on him for waiting too long to propose.

If you are going to the supermarket for a wife, she will keep you waiting while she mulls over whether you should get two cans of dog food or three.

If you are supposed to meet her at a downtown corner, you can wait through three changes of climate before she shows up, cheerful as a guilt-free cherub.

If you are ready to go to a party at 7 p.m., she is still daubing goo on her face at 8 p.m.

If you are ready to leave the party at 11 p.m., you are still holding the door open at midnight while she and her hostess exchange goodby gossip.

There is simply no limit to the ways a wife can keep a husband waiting. Even if she tells him he is going to be a father, he must wait for the better part of a year for her to make good on her promise. A mother kangeroo can perform the same feat in less than six weeks, a mother raccoon in two months, a mother rabbit in a month, and a mother opposum in 12½ days.

No matter for what reason a wife keeps her husband waiting, there is no way for him to hurry her up, though he whine, plead, groan, grovel threaten or just sit there and sigh and whimper.

Romney Has No Specific Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney, nearing a crucial step in his undeclared move for the Republican presidential nomination, says he will not produce "specific alternative proposals" in his coming speech on the Vietnam war.

Instead, Romney said Monday, he will outline "my basic attitude, my basic viewpoint" in a speech Friday night at Hartford, Conn.

That viewpoint reportedly is a general—but conditional—endorsement of President Johnson's conduct of the war. But the governor is said to be planning criticism of the way the administration has sought to bring a negotiated settlement.

Romney said he did not discuss his Vietnam views Monday when he conferred with other Republican leaders at a session of the Republican Coordinating Committee.

But he did talk it over with former GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall during a visit to the Washington headquarters of the Romney for President Committee. Hall is chairman.

They spent an hour in private conference. Romney said they discussed "the thoughts I'm formulating" for the Vietnam speech.

Hall also gave the governor an initial report on the outlook for Romney's possible candidacy in New Hampshire, scene of the first 1968 presidential primary. Romney said he had not had a chance to read it.

Romney's visit to the Washington headquarters was his first. "It seems adequate for what they need," the governor said.

The Vietnam speech has assumed towering proportions in Romney's apparent quest for the nomination. Romney guaranteed that on March 18, when he announced the speech would outline his position on Vietnam.

Since landslide re-election in Michigan propelled him to the front rank of potential GOP presidential choices, Romney has refused to discuss his position on the war.

Instead, the governor said he was undertaking a searching reexamination of the conflict, and would go to Vietnam for a firsthand study.

Courts Will Win Over Gov. Wallace

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) —What's the next step in Gov. Lurleen Wallace's promised defiance of a federal court order to integrate all Alabama schools?

Ultimately, many legislators agree, the courts will have their way and the city and county school boards will start desegregating their faculties and increase pupil integration.

But before that comes about, a lot of words will be spoken, most of them angrily. There probably will be further court hearings.

The first official action in response to the governor's plea to the legislature for resistance may come this week in the legislative halls where Alabama seceded from the Union in 1861 and where the Confederacy was formed.

Mrs. Wallace asked the Alabama House and Senate to pass a "cease-and-disist" order directed to the three-judge court which handed down the statewide integration mandate. A resolution invoking the state's police power and calling on the court to rescind its order probably will be introduced this week.

How much force such a resolution would have remains to be seen. The court probably won't recognize it.

The legislature also may resolve itself into a committee of the whole to hear testimony from school administrators. Mrs. Wallace said that would enable the House and Senate to determine what legislation would be needed to support the resistance.

Finally, unless the court order is set aside pending an appeal to the Supreme Court — and there appears to be little likelihood of that — the governor told the legislature she wants the authority to take over the schools.

The strategy behind that is to compel the court to deal with the governor's office instead of state school authorities.

Mrs. Wallace could refuse to comply with the court order and say to the judges — as she did in substance last Thursay night — "You have made the order, now you enforce it."

But it takes time to get legislation of such magnitude through the House and Senate and State School Supt. Ernest Stone has just two weeks to file with the court the first in a series of status reports.

Because only one of the state's more than 100 school systems was directly involved in the court decree, Stone was instructed to notify the others of the judges' order.

He was given 25 days from the date of the court ruling, March 22, to report what he has done to notify the local boards.

Suppose the legislature takes away the superintendent's supervisory power over the schools and gives it to the governor?

Stone may find himself caught between a state government telling him to do one thing and a federal court refusing to recognize the state's intervention and ordering him to do another.

Before it is over, federal authorities may have to decide whether to send in troops or U.S. marshals to see that the court order is carried out and to preserve peace.

Then the governor's husband, former Gov. George C. Wallace, could campaign for president telling the voters how his state had been "occupied" by federal forces.

Bond Issue Defeated

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — A bond issue for $25,000 to improve municipal parks was defeated Tuesday 1,827 to 635.

Voters also turned down a proposal to increase the city tax levy by 10 cents per $100 valuation, 1,802 to 665. The increase mainly would have been used to help finance a city ambulance service.

Carthage elected all Republicans in a five-seat city council race. Two Democratic incumbents were defeated. The council line-up will be 7-3 in favor of the GOP.

Okay School Levy

ST. JOSEPH (AP) — Voters of the St. Joseph School District approved a $3.28 tax levy for the next two years, a 30-cent increase.

In unusually light voting, the levy carried 5,054 to 2,956.

The additional revenue will be used to upgrade the teacher salaries.

Wounded Soldier Has Court Case Dismissed

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Marine Cpl. Wardell Finney limped as he approached the bench in traffic court where he was answering a speeding charge.

When Judge Nathan Young learned the reason for the limp, he said, "on my own motion, I am going to discharge you in view of the fact that you were wounded in the service of the country."

Dairymen To Blame For Low Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee told dairymen they are to blame for low milk prices because they produce too much.

"If you fellas don't want to control production, you're going to go broke—every last one of you," Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., told a delegation of dairymen. "And I might say you ought to go broke."

Poage said he expects Congress to pass the dairy import restriction bill they seek — and the dairymen applauded.

Poage added:

"But I doubt you'll see much difference in your price when we do. It will have a nice psychological effect, but I doubt that it will affect prices much."

He spoke to nearly 150 Midwest dairymen on a National Farmers Union trip to urge congressional support for direct price support payments as well as controls on dairy imports.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman told the group he plans to summon dairy industry leaders to see whether they can agree on a dairy stabilization plan for presentation to Congress.

"I want to assure you," Freeman said, "that I am taking every action I can to raise dairy prices.

"But I am somewhat disturbed about the complaints that the farm income situation is bad. Certainly I am not satisfied with the level of farm income, but I do not think it is as bad as some people say it is."

Poage told the dairymen they have been producing five to eight per cent more milk than the market can take for years. The price won't go up until the supply drops to the level of demand, he said.

"Unfortunately, our people have found they don't have to pay a fair price for milk," he said. "And why should they if you'll produce five to eight per cent more than they need?"

Poage was critical of the milk withholding action of the National Farmres Organization. He said it did serve to focus public attention on dairymen's problems.

"But I don't believe in antagonizing the public," he said. "I think we need the cooperation of the public."

Requests Election

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bruce (Red) Mcarthy, a suspended officer of the largest local in the International Association of Machinists, has presented petitions to the National Labor Relations Board requesting an election which could lead to an open union shop at the giant St. Louis McDonnell plant.

Mcarthy and four other officers of Local 837 were suspended for hiring a lawyer without permission of the IAM.

If the 22,000 members of the local vote to support Mcarthy, the IAM could be thrown out as collective bargaining agent at McDonnell. Mcarthy and his group could then form a new union.

Increase In Vessels

ATHENS (AP) —Greece had 7093 fishing vessels in 1965 compared with 6,777 in 1964, merchant marine data showed. The 1965 catch was valued at $31,123,200.

Monkeying Around With the Pollsters

Things were pretty slow down at the San Francisco Zoo the other day, until a pollster stopped by with the question, "What do you think about actors going into politics?" Coming forth with varying degrees of political astuteness were some chimpanzees and orangutans, party affiliation unknown.

"Ain't a one of them can hold a candle to Willie Mays. I'm backing him for governor in '72!"

"Tell you what, sport. Before I answer that, how about joining me at my club for a little refreshment?"

"Who cares, Hollywood's good old days are gone anyway. The kids and method actors are taking over."

"I don't care if he's a piano player in a pizza parlor, as long as he supports the free speech movement."

"What was that again, sonny? Guess I was thinking about my pies in the oven."

TV Strike Affecting Night Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The continuing strike of the performers' union which has snarled the daytime schedules of the three major television networks, affected evening shows Tuesday night.

CBS, on very short notice, postponed its widely promoted "National Science Test" and substituted a personal, hour-long report on the Vietnam war by CBS correspondent Morley Safer.

It was a shame that more advance notice could not have been given. The program was one of the clearest pictures of that distant war that has been shown on television.

Safer had no big opinions — "I just don't know," he said about withdrawal, escalation and such — but with excellent film footage and his own keen observation, he conveyed the feeling of what he called "schizophrenia" about the conditions there.

His overwhelming impression, he noted, was of "blood and beer and sweat and cheap perfume." We saw Americans pinned down by sniper fire, a soldier killed by misdirected artillery fire, a stripper in a Saigon night spot, undernourished children playing games in a cemetery.

"Generals look out of place in war," Safer noted. "Their fatigues are too well pressed."

Safer's own heroes are the helicopter pilots — "extensions of the World War I aces," he called them.

He seems to dislike the war as much as any of the soldiers he talked to in the field.

"My total impression," he said, "is one of brutal absurdity."

Johnny Carson, after five years on "The Tonight Show" has not been happy for some months, and his decision to quit the show, made known Tuesday, seems to be an extension of this discontent.

His announcement comes, however, at a time when he is facing his toughest competition. The AFTRA strike permitting, ABC will launch Joey Bishop in a competitive show April 17 and on May 1 Bill Dana will start a nightly two-hour revue - type show from Las Vegas on the new United network.

NBC reran a fairly recent Carson show Tuesday night. Carson's lawyer claims such reruns violate his network agreement which has almost three more years to run. NBC, in a statement, said the use of reruns is permitted by the contract.

1964 Order Directs ALCOA To Sell Firm

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The U. S. Justice Department has filed a petition seeking quick action on a 1964 order directing the Aluminum Co. of America to sell a St. Louis firm, Cupples Products Corp.

In the petition to U. S. District Judge James Meredith, the Justice Department alleges ALCOA has stalled in completing the divestiture order issued by Judge Meredith.

The order was appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court in 1965, but the high court upheld the ruling. The order, citing antitrust laws, directed ALCOA to sell the St. Louis firm which specializes in metal curtain wall manufacture.

The petition filed Tuesday alleges ALCOA has "moved at a leisurely pace" in attempting to sell the firm which also has plants in Dowagiac, Mich., and Corona, Calif.

Terrorism Increases In Viet Nam

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An American who remained in Cuba after fighting the Spanish-American War is trying to get his U.S. citizenship back. He would like it as a gift on his 100th birthday next week.

"This is my country, and I want to die as an American," said Charles L. Leuthold.

Leuthold's daughter, Frances, who cares for him, asked President Johnson to speed his citizenship. Ordinarily it takes five years to become a citizen.

Miss Leuthold wrote the President Tuesday: "Since he is old and feeble, I would like to ask you if citizenship could be restored in time for his 100th birthday, April 14. That would make him very happy."

Leuthold declared: "I'd go to Cuba again to help free the country a second time. I think the United States should send soldiers again. That man Castro and communism must go."

Leuthold and his daughter left Cuba five years ago. Recently he was permitted to change his status from refugee to resident in three days. The process normally takes four months.

"There is no freedom in Cuba, that is why I left," said the slender white-haired man. "I'd like to go back, but not under communism."

Leuthold, born in Baar, Switzerland, came to the United States at the age of 2. He grew up in Tipton, Iowa, and operated a photo studio in Fort Worth, Tex. He enlisted in the Army in 1898 at the outbreak of the war that led to Cuban independence of Spain.

"I liked Cuba, the people, the climate, everything," he explained. "So I remained."

Leuthold married a Cuban and opened a photo studio in Cardenas, Matanzas. He became a Cuban citizen. His wife, Delores, died in 1958, a year before Fidel Castro's takeover.

The OCLAE includes students from Cuba, Urugray, Venezela, the Dominican Republic, Panama, Puerto Rico and Guadeloupe.

Experiment Response Pleases Sgt. Knechtel

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Although people "haven't been exactly waiting in line to see me," Sgt. Elmer Knechtel is pleased with the response to Seattle's "floating" police headquarters, established in an area where most of the city's minority groups live.

"There was a feeling that the police were not always available to central area residents," Knechtel said. "This is the result."

Knechtel works out of the first African Methodist Episcopal church from 4 to 8 p.m.

In the first three days, 11 persons, whites and Negroes, stopped by. The sergeant handled two complaints and interviewed a possible recruit.

Results of the experiment will be assessed after a month's trial.

holding action, the NFO dumped milk supplies. As the second phase it sought to get processing plants to accept NFO milk for manufacture into butter, cheese and other products, which the NFO placed in storage.

The third phase, which started this week was to have NFO members sell dairy cows for slaughter, thus removing them from production. The selloff of dairy cattle will continue this week, spokesmen said.

No up to date figures on the amount of dairy cows sold had been compiled by NFO headquarters but their earlier reports included 5,000 head in Wisconsin, 932 in Minnesota, 250 in Nebraska, 400 around St. Louis and smaller numbers elsewhere.

Asks

in the economy have lessened in recent months, they have not disappeared," Johnson said. "They could easily recur. We must therefore continue to seek restraint in private wage settlements and to exercise restraint in the operations of government."

Johnson said higher postal rates are needed because the Post Office Department deficit will be about $1.2 billion plus the cost of the pay increase he recommended.

He asked Congress to make a 1-cent increase in letter mail rates effective July 1. He also called for an average increase of 21 per cent for special rate fourth class mail — mainly books and records — on the same date.

The President called for a gradual three-year average increase of 22 per cent for second-class mail — newspapers and magazines —starting next Jan. 1.

As for third-class charges, the chief executive proposed an average increase of 28 per cent. The increase for single pieces of mail would go into effect July 1. On bulk mailings it would be delayed until Jan. 1.

Johnson said he was proposing this delay in recognition of the cost borne by mailers who had to start zip coding and presorting their bulk mailings as of last Jan. 1.

He pictured the proposed rate increases as a necessary forerunner to a modernized postal service.

"We do not have such a postal service today," he said.

He added that many post offices are old and too small, and all must be equipped with modern, high-speed mail processing machines — "the most efficient our nation's technology can produce."

Looking toward the day when more mail will be handled by machines rather than men, Johnson proposed that two years from now a special surcharge be imposed on odd-sized envelopes that cannot be handled by the equipment he has in mind.

"The pay and postal rate increases I recommend in this message," he said, "are essential if we are to have a government of responsive and talented people and an efficient postal system."

Delay in making federal pay comparable to that in the private sector, beyond the dates he suggested, would be inexcusable and would impair the public service, the President argued.

Viet Cong defectors since the open arms campaign began in 1963 now stands at 58,970.

The defectors in March included 3,552 military men. In addition, the U.S. command has reported 9,085 of the enemy killed dur151 wyyf f46 eg5

The defectors in March included 3,552 military men. In addition, the U.S. command has reported 9,085 of the enemy killed during the last three days of February and the first 25 days of March, bringing enemy losses reported so far for March to 12,637.

Despite these losses, which reflect the intensified tempo of the war, the U.S. estimate of the enemy force in South Vietnam increased 5,000 during the month, from 282,000 to 287,000.

In the air war against the North, U.S. pilots flew only 70 combat missions Tuesday after flying 175 on Monday. Initial reports indicated the weather was poor again today over North Vietnam and that strikes once more were limited.

The persistent bad weather is expected to clear any day now, and it is generally expected the U.S. raids will be intensified.

Tuesday U.S. pilots struck at storage areas, roads, bridges, trucks, and railroad facilities in the southern panhandle and southeast and southwest of Haiphong. No raids were reported in the immediate areas of Hanoi or Haiphong, however.

In Seoul, capital of South Korea, visiting Premier Thanom Kittikachorn of Thailand and South Korean Premier Chung Ilkwon issued a joint communique pledging to intensify their military effort in South Vietnam until Communist aggression is ended. They also said they wanted a part in any settlement and would continue efforts to bring peace to Vietnam. The communique said any settlement to be enduring "must respect the wishes and aspirations of the Vietnamese government and people" and the Vietnamese goverment "should have full participation in any negotiations designed to bring about the settlement of the conflict."

Entertaining Program At Optimist Meet

A different and very entertaining program was presented Tuesday noon at the Optimist Club meeting held at State Fair Restaurant, by three students of the Speech Department of the Smith-Cotton High School.

Morris K. Byrum, vice-principal of Smith-Cotton, as program chairman, introduced Dan Curtis, speech and debate instructor, who presented the three boys, Randy Burton, Harry Lambirth and Terry Koehn.

Randy Burton delivered a political speech, "Campaign For President" which was so confused it couldn't help elect his opponent. Randy did an excellent job of saying the wrong thing and so thoroughly mixing himself up that his entire speech came out a jumble of misstatements and contradictions.

Harry Lambirth, who won fourth in Missouri in a recent contest, demonstrated his dramatic ability in his interpretation of a student taking a physical examination at a university Student Health Center from "Barefoot Boy With Cheek." There was real comedy in his impersonations.

Terry Koehn's interpretation, "Noah" was well done in the conversation between Noah and the Lord, when the Lord wanted Noah to build an ark on dry land, and the complications Noah ran into with his ark, his neighbors, the animals and even the Lord. Just about the time he was going to rebel the Lord won his point with raindrops.

The meeting was presided over by R. L. Settles, president

A special guest was Dennis Bruns, also a student of Curtis, who Sunday won Zone E Boys Oratorical Contest of Optimist International. Dennis, who was sponsored by the Sedalia Noon Optimist Club will now go to the district contest. He is the fourth Sedalia boy in that many years to be a winner of the zone contest. Marvin Kueck, chairman of the Boys Oratorical Contest, was commended as well as Dennis.

The invocation was given by Fred Biggs.

Gary Swartz of Shaw's Music Co., was introduced as a guest.

Plan Music Festival

The annual District Music Festival will be held April 8, in Warrensburg, according to Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, the head of Smith-Cotton's Music Department. "We are looking forward to this contest, and I am sure that all students entered will gain a lot from this experience," commented Mrs. Schrader. Approximately 45 Smith-Cotton students will be entered in the contest's three divisions — voice, instrumental, and piano.

King Unfolds Major New Program

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has unfolded a major new program of teach-ins, preach-ins and mass demonstrations in an effort to gain from the government an admission "that we have been wrong from the beginning of our adventure in Vietnam."

The winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize pictured the United States Tuesday as so dedicated to its worldwide money and material investments that it has become "the greatest purveyor of violence in the world today," and is on the wrong side of a world revolution for human rights.

"Now they languish under our bombs," he said of the South Vietnamese, "and consider us — not their fellow Vietnamese — the real enemy. They move sadly and apathetically as we herd them off the land of their fathers into concentration camps where minimal social needs are rarely met. So far we may have killed a million of them, mostly children."

King's first recommendation, delivered at a news conference, was for "those who are prepared to do it, who see the great dangers ahead for mankind," to become conscientious objectors.

In the evening, before more than 3,000 persons in the Riverside church, he called for clergymen to give up their draft-exemption as clergy and become conscientious objectors.

He also suggested a five-point program designed to "begin the long and difficult process of extricating ourselves from this night-marish conflict:"

—End all bombing in Vietnam.

—Declare a unilateral ceasefire "in the hope that such action will create the atmosphere for negotiation."

—Curtail U.S. military buildups in Thailand and Laos.

—Accept a role for the National Liberation Front — Viet Cong — in negotiations and in any future government, because it "has substantial support in South Vietnam."

—Set a date for removing all foreign troops in accord with the 1954 Geneva agreement.

In his hour-long address, sponsored by the Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, King said the civil rights and peace programs were inextricably linked in his mind. He said the war on poverty, a "shining moment" of a few years ago, had been "broken and eviscerated" by the war buildup."

King got standing ovations, at the beginning and at the end of his talk. He was picketed by about two dozen members of a Queens Negro organization that insisted the two causes should not be tied together.

House Back To Work On Major Bills

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House comes back to work late today, faced with almost 150 bills for debate and a big backlog of bills still in committee.

Among the bills facing committee members returning from their Easter vacation are ones to let the Division of Health operate home health services and to allow placement of mental health patients in the homes of relatives.

Also facing committees are the massive bank code revision and a constitutional amendment to legalize bingo for charitable, educational or religious purposes.

In the Senate Appropriations Committee Joseph Jaeger Jr., state park director, came under heavy fire from committee members on the proposed jet airport with an 8,000-foot runway at the Lake of the Ozarks.

When asked by Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Clayton, where he got the authority to start work on the controversial airport, Jaeger said the Park Board has authority to build transportation facilities and considers the jet airport as such.

The budget request for the Park Board includes $135,000 for a runway and building at the facility.

Roger Jensen At Southwest Lions Meet

Roger Jensen, production manager for Pittsburgh Corning in Tessenderlo, Belgium, was principal speaker at the Southwest Lions Club dinner meeting, at LeRoy's Steak House Tuesday night. The speaker, who has visited the club previously, spoke on his country and answered numerous questions regarding Belgium.

He also gave his own personal views on the United States action in Vietnam.

Jensen was introduced by Bob Barbour, president of the Southwest Club and presented him with a Southwest Lions Club flag.

The Club has also assumed a project which will keep Ban Johnson baseball alive in Sedalia. After considerable discussion following a report from Lion Jim Lewis regarding the cost of the sponsorship, and club voted to assume the responsibility of sponsoring the Sedalia B.J. team. Lewis and other interested members of the club will attend a Ban Johnson Central Missouri League meeting in Boonville, Sunday, April 23.

Gib Atkins, treasurer, reported on the project Easter Dinner which was held at LeRoy's on Easter Sunday. Club members served the dinner and the report was in affect a successful venture.

April 18th the Club will hold a Ladies Night for the wives and lady guests.

LBJ, RFK Clash Over A Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy again are clashing — this time over the White House-backed presidential election campaign financing law.

Kennedy called Tuesday for repeal of the law enacted by Congress last year, saying it would give "massive amounts of funds in a dangerous and unrestricted way to the national leadership of the two major political parties."

Although the New York Democrat named no names, his remarks seemed directed at least partially at Johnson — particularly since Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said Tuesday the White House "was calling all over the United States during the Easter recess" seeking votes to prevent repeal of the plan. Johnson had endorsed the the plan last year.

The current law would provide up to $30 million to each major political party in 1968, with the money coming from income tax payments. It allows each taxpayer specifically to allot $1 of his income levy to a fund to be split between the parties.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the measure, has suggested amending it this year to eliminate the taxpayer "check-off" system and substitute direct $30-million federal appropriations to the major parties.

But Gore is leading a drive to repeal the measure altogether.

He is trying to tack his repealer amendment onto a bill restoring tax breaks to business.

Kennedy, attacking Long's proposed amendment as "a monster," said "it could lead to destruction of our local political parties and their domination from Washington."

He suggested national leaders could withhold funds generated by the measure from states whose leadership refused to deliver delegates at the national conventions.

Long insisted that anyone using the tactics Kennedy feared "would end up in the penitentiary."

Further spotlighting Kennedy's clash with the administration was a letter to Long urging defeat of Gore's move and signed by Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler.

As the Senate headed for a possible showdown today on the campaign financing issue, the House Foreign Affairs Committee opened its hearings on Johnson's request for $3.1 billion in foreign aid for the year beginning July 1.

Some committee members predicted the President's aid package — a controversial item any year — would get a particularly rough going-over from this year's economy-minded Congress.

Johnson's hopes for a congressional resolution pledging future U.S. aid to Latin America remained in precarious shape in the Senate, with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Sen. Long suggesting it might be wise to sidetrack the measure.

Airlift Is Now Routine Operation

VARADERO, Cuba, (AP) — The Varadero airlift has settled into a routine operation for everyone except the 3,700 Cubans who leave monthly on the 35-minute flight to Miami, Fla.

Twice daily, Monday through Friday, U. S. airliners touch down on the runway at this beach resort 80 miles east of Havana to pick up the departing Cubans.

Since the operation began Dec. 1, 1965, nearly 60,000 have flown to the United States this way. Havana sources say an estimated 120,000 to 150,000 others are on the waiting list, and predict the airlift will continue at least three years more.

With no friends or relatives present, there is little visible emotion as the Cubans sit docilely through the last moments. Some say they have tried for five years to leave. Others report waiting slightly more than a year.

A Swiss observer and a handful of Cuba government officials look on.

Two U.S. immigration officials and a U.S. Public Health Service doctor who come with the plane from Miami take the Cubans through the final checks. Then someone calls out in English "all aboard," and the Cubans walk silently toward the plane. A smiling girl skips ahead of her mother.

The airlift agreement was worked out by the Swiss Embassy, which represents U.S. interests in Cuba.

At present, only Cubans with relatives in the United States are eligible. Males 15-26, the age for military service, and technicians are prohibited from leaving. The Cuban government approves a list of applicants which must be verified in Washington and returned to Havana for rechecking. More than 20 Swiss Embassy personnel are involved in this paperwork.

Air transportation is paid for in dollars by the United States, which contracts with airlines to make the flights.

Although perhaps 250 to 300 Cubans leave monthly by other routes such as Spain and Mexico, the free flights from Varadero remain the principal outlet. Air fare by other means must be paid in dollars.

The Cuban government says any Cuban who wants to leave is free to do so. Those who take the Varadero airlift or other routes must leave all their possessions behind except what they can take in a suitcase.

Means to Crime Solutions

As we were about to say last Sunday when our attention was diverted to a commentary on local politics, there is talk going on in the legislative halls at Jefferson City concerning inflation of Missouri's crime rate and what to do about it.

So, scheduled for hearing on April 12 in the House is a resolution asking for establishment of a joint Senate-House interim committee on crime and law enforcement. Many members of the General Assembly acknowledge there is need of direct legislative effort in the state to remedy this problem.

As proposed, a ten member committee would have five members each from the House and Senate. Not more than three from each house would be members of the same political party.

Among the duties of the committee would be a detailed study of the rapid increase in crime in Missouri, including illegal use of drugs and narcotics, riots and crimes of violence, and any abuses or practices which may be connected with these matters; make recommendations for changes or corrections in existing laws; propose remedial legislation; and report to the General Assembly and Governor by January 10, 1969.

Local and state law enforcement agencies may be requested to assist the committee.

Authors of the resolution are specific in their desire that this interim committee not turn its activities into a witch hunt; that emphasis will be on the reasons for accelerated crime and practical remedies to lessen it.

Of great concern is the entry of gangsters into legal business which they use as a front for their illicit operations.

Passage of this measure would be a significant step in the state's offensive against increasing criminal activities and other types of lawlessness, even including some subversive elements which need to be smoked out into the open.

$120-Million Gargle

A serious epidemic of halitosis is sweeping the country, as anyone who watches television is aware. An entire generation is in dire danger of being wiped out by nervous breakdowns caused by having to face the decision of whether or not to tell the boss or mother-in-law or somebody that he has BAD BREATH!

Or could it be that the advertising industry is merely suffering an acute attack of a chronic ailment — bad taste? BAD TASTE!

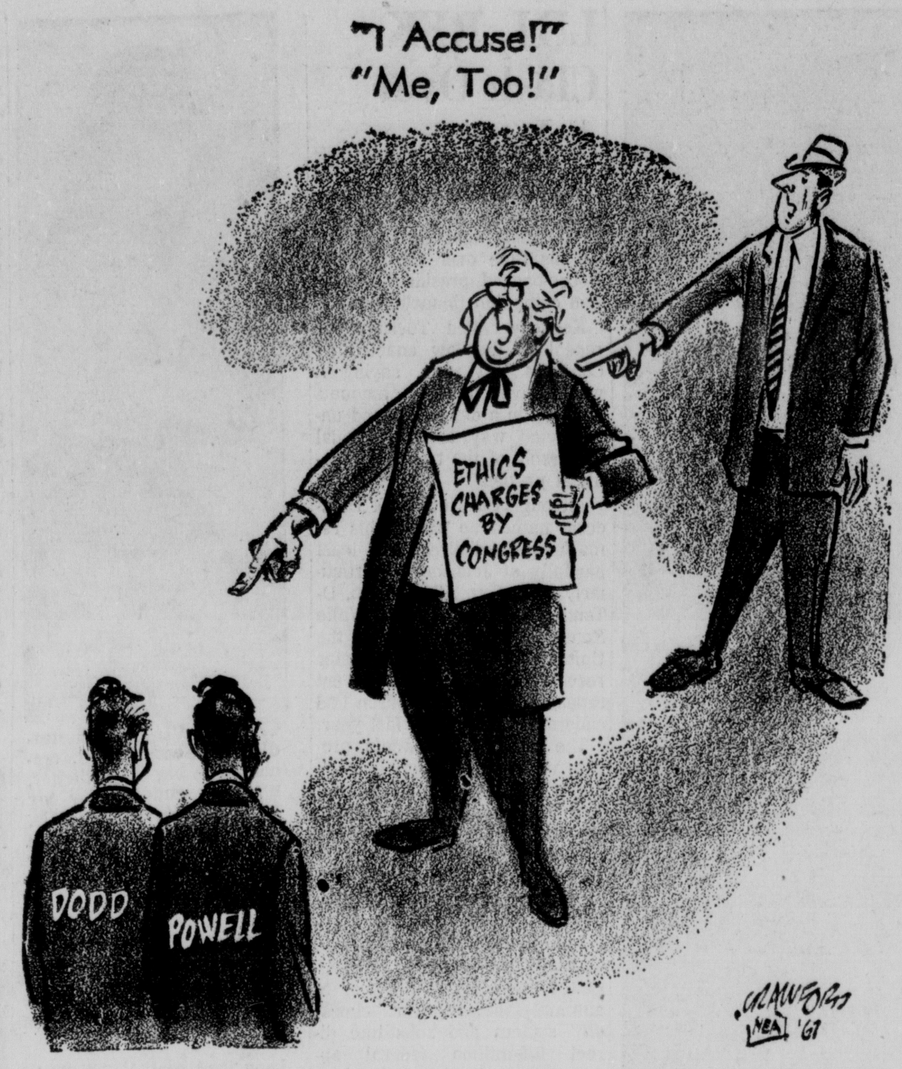

It should worry. Americans will spend $120 million on mouthwashes this year, reports the Wall Street Journal—up 15 percent from 1966.

Transportation and manufacturing are two major sources of air pollution causing property damage estimated at about $11 billion a year. Another souce is campaign promises at political meetings of candidates for public office.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

W. B. Morgan, from the district office of the Goodyear Company in Kansas City, has arrived in Sedalia to assume managership of the local Goodyear store at 313 South Ohio avenue. He succeeds Fred Jungerman.

FORTY YEARS AGO

That Pettis county should vote bonds for a new jail was a recommendation made to the governor of Missouri in the biennial report of the State Board of Charities and Corrections of Missouri. The report concluded: "The Pettis county jail is very badly in need of repairs. The county should vote bonds for a new one."

— 1927 —

The Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation is starting the building of an extensive plant in Sedalia to be located on the northeast corner of Broadway and Ingram avenue at a cost of more than $7,000.

Builders' Bonanza

This will be good news for diaper manufacturers, contractors and the home products industries, though it may give some population experts a chill in their bones:

Mothers of the near future indicate they are going in for larger families — three or more children — according to a nationwide survey of recently married couples, all under 26 years old.

The survey, by the Armstrong Cork Company, disclosed that nine out of 10 of the couples planned to buy or build a home and that one-third hoped to do so within the next 24 months.

Other findings in the poll gave this picture of affluent America, dwelling-wise:

More than nine out of 10 new homes today have three or more bedrooms and more than half have two or more baths and an attached garage.

The majority have buit-in appliances, with air conditioning in every fifth house.

There is a family room in seven out of 10 new homes and a patio on nearly half the properties.

Crippling Facets In Registration Laws

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — The United States has the most highly mobile population in the world, but in many states the voting registration laws would hardly be suitable if nobody ever moved at all.

About one-fifth of all Americans move every year, and a fair proportion of that number shift from state to state. Yet, in nearly three-quarters of the states a citizen has to live in the state a year and often in his county for six months in order to be eligible to vote.

Probably eight to 10 million Americans will be disenfranchised in the 1968 elections by antiquated registration laws and procedures.

The one saving grace is that there does seem to be a trend away from these pointlessly crippling regulations. Some 20 states now have loosened their residence requirements for voting just for president and vice president.

Others are joining them. Constitutional amendments adopted by the people last year authorize legislatures in Georgia, Florida, Texas and Oklahoma to shorten materially the residence-time requirements for presidential and, sometimes, other voting.

Some states which begin by easing presidential voting requirements soon spread the new rules to all statewide voting, at least.

Where the loosening occurs, generally it takes the form of reducing residence requirements to 60 days or less, though New York sets the necessary span at three months.

Another growing feature of importance is more general absentee balloting, to allow citizens who move out of a state to keep voting there until they have met the perhaps too-extended registration requirements of another state.

The League of Women Voters probably does more yeoman service in the various states than any other agency engaged in this work. Lifting the yoke of outdated law is a glacially slow business, but the league is persistent and energetic.

With another election year just nine months off, the major political parties are stirring on the registration front again.

The Democrats, who outraged one of their most accomplished professionals by abandoning the registration activity of their national committee more than a year ago, have revived it under Billie Farnum, new deputy committee chairman and former Michigan congressman.

Farnum reminded the national committee at its recent Washington meeting that it is easier to get a hunting or fishing license than register to vote.

He observed that registration periods are usually too short, that procedures are too cumbersome and inconvenient, that some Americans consequently are disenfranchised merely because they fall ill, take a business or vacation trip, or are otherwise occupied at registration time.

Said Farnum:

"In these days when even bank loans can be obtained by mail, about half the states will not permit a citizen to register by mail; he must appear in person."

No other free country, he noted, requires its citizens to assume the obligation of getting registered in order to vote. In other lands, government performs the registration function.

The latter answer may not attract Americans. But obviously, with more motion in the population than ever before, the country quickly needs laws and rules making it easy, simple and convenient to get registered and stay that way.

The top Democrat who was disturbed at his party's laxity believes that realistically the registration effort has to be almost continuous. Granting the point, it ought also to be so automatically manageable that the parties do not have to spend large amounts of money and manpower to assure it.

Rebuff Johnson On Latin Aid Project

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The earth not only didn't shake, it didn't even tremble. What happened Monday may not mean much in the long view of history. But President Johnson was rebuffed, and at an awkward time for him.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee simply questioned his judgment and leadership in foreign affairs, and put a brake on it. That this could happen, in the way it did, shows Johnson no longer waves a magic wand over Congress.

Next week he is going to a summit meeting of Latin-American leaders at Punta del Este, Uruguay. As an encouragement to them in creating a common market, Johnson wanted to take with him a congressional pledge of U.S. aid.

He wanted to avoid being vague; he wanted to be a little definite. But the committee, headed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, decided that being vague was as far as he should go.

This decision has roots beginning in August 1964, when North Vietnamese PT boats attacked American destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin and U.S. planes retaliated by bombing coastal bases of North Vietnam.

Johnson asked Congress then to back him up by approving a resolution giving him a congressional go-ahead beforehand for whatever steps he thought necessary to "repel ... aggression."

Both houses approved overwhelmingly but not before some of the members expressed misgivings about such a blanket endorsement for the future.

The resolution said the power it authorized for the President would last until he had decided peace was restored to Southeast Asia. On the strength of this, and without any formal declaration of war, Johnson intensified the war.

As time passed, and the United States got more deeply involved, some of the misgivings in Congress grew, particularly among critics of the war, like Fulbright and Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat.

Finally, in 1966 Morse tried to get the Senate to rescind the Gulf of Tonkin resolution which Fulbright had helped push through. In 1966 Fulbright said he regretted the 1964 resolution and opposed killing the Morse proposal. But the Senate did kill it, 95 to 5.

In preparation for his Latin-American trip Johnson on March 13 sent Congress a message asking a resolution to strengthen his hand at Punta del Este. He spoke of $1.5 billion additional aid to Latin America over the next five years. This would help the common market get going.

But the proposed resolution itself didn't mention any specific money figure. It would simply have said that Congress "recommends" an increase in Latin-American aid.

In approving the kind of resolution Johnson wanted, Congress would not have been voting any money. Voting money is a separate action — in this case off in the future — and when the time came Congress would decide how much money could be given.

The House, after some bitter disagreements, approved a resolution saying it "supports" additional help to Latin America. But, before the full Senate could vote on it, Fulbright's committee had to act. Fulbright opposed the House resolution, which satisfied Johnson, as a "blank check."

Under Fulbright's leadership his committee boiled the juice out of what Johnson proposed and said no more than that the United States should give "due consideration to cooperating" in agreements on a Latin-American common market and other programs.

This infuriated the White House. Fulbright cited the Tonkin Gulf resolution as one of the main reasons for his opposition to the Johnson resolution on Latin America, saying the President used the 1964 resolution to justify increasing the war in Vietnam.

The Fulbright committee action isn't necessarily final. The full Senate can have final say on exactly what kind of resolution Johnson should get. But Johnson may have to go to Punta del Este emptyhanded and defeated if the Senate fails to act before he leaves.

Trick Stretcher Works Again

The play of many no-trump contracts takes the form of a race. The defense races to set up its low card tricks, declarer races to collect enough tricks for his contract before the defense can take over.

Opening lead—♠ Q

Some players would act with the North hand after the spade opening. In general the best policy is to pass. North has 13 high card points but needs a lot of help from his partner if he is going anywhere except down.

East passes and after South reopens with one no-trump North raises his partner to game. West opens the queen of spades and South looks over dummy. He sees at least nine potential tricks but he has to knock out two aces to get them and West has started the race for low card tricks with his queen of spades lead. South sees that West is going to win the race and collect three spades and two aces.

South can count to eight tricks if he attacks hearts. He can count nine tricks if he attacks diamonds and it turns out that West holds ace and one diamond. He leads to dummy's king, returns a diamond and plays low from his own hand. This play won't work this time because West holds ace-jack-ten.

South still has a way to win the race. Do you see it?

It is a play in two suits. He wins the spade in his own hand and leads a diamond toward dummy. If West goes up, South will make four diamond tricks but West plays the ten or the jack. South wins in dummy and abandons the diamond suit in favor of the hearts. He has one diamond and one spade in and will now make three hearts, another spade and three clubs for the nine tricks he needs to win the race.

Let Child Set Pace Learning To Speak

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Every child does not learn to talk at the same age. Some say a few words at 11 or 12 months and some say very little until they are three or more. Most children fall somewhere between these extremes. If your child is not talking by the time he is 14 months old you should have his hearing checked. If it is normal, relax. Don't try to pressure him by refusing to give him something he points at until he names it. If you want to teach your dog to sit up and beg, do so, but your child is not a dog.

The more a child likes you, the more he will want to be like you, so talk to him in a calm pleasant voice as much of the time when you are with him as you can. Some children never do say single words but at the age of about three they start talking in well-rounded sentences. It is said that Albert Einstein was over three years old before he started to talk. His parents were plenty worried but he made out all right!

In some children undue pressure in other matters, such as toilet training, will make them hesitate to start talking. Their watchword seems to be: "Let's lick one problem at a time. Gee, mom, I can't learn everything all at once!"

Q — What should be done with a 7-year-old child who is nervous and high-strung?

A — Nervousness is a vague term that may indicate restlessness, easy fatigability, overexcitability, short span of attention or timidity without apparent reason. In some children these symptoms may be a result of being pushed beyond their mental or physical capacity, competition with older brothers or sisters or a reflection of anxiety in the parents.

The first step in treatment is to try to find the cause and correct it. It is important to let the child know that he is loved irrespective of his accomplishments and to arrange a well - balanced program of work, rest and play as well as a well - balanced diet. If the child is too serious, try to inject a little gaiety into the family life.

Encyclical Evokes Little Reaction Or Interest Here

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — (AP) — Pope Paul's encyclical on the development of peoples, though it contained some pointed criticisms of capitalism, has evoked very little public reaction from American business interests.

If some of these same criticisms had been made from within the country, a pained and predictable roar would have been heard. In the past, at least, this has been the response to criticism from certain elements.

The present silence could be for several reasons: out of courtesy to the Pope, out of fear of controversy, out of lack of concern, out of necessity to assimilate the material before reacting.

The most likely reason is the last named. Although obviously critical of capitalism, the encyclical also is critical of communism. People used to criticism of one or the other will be confused, for this encyclical is a critique of many institutions.

In some respects the ideals of humanism espoused in the encyclical, Populorum Progressio, are the same as those held dear by Americans: that each man is the principal agent of his success or failure.

But, the observation that private property does not constitute "for anyone an absolute and unconditioned right" might be construed as inimical to those who equate property with freedom.

Even in specifics, capitalists are going to find criticism mixed with what they will consider to be in support of their views. An example came this week.

The Pope, in discussing the disturbing and explosive reality of the rich nations becoming richer and the poor poorer, suggested that free trade itself might be contributing to this and suggested price regulation.

This was followed by a recommendation from a committee of businessmen that the United States apply preferential tariffs to help less developed nations, a proposal very similar to that made by the Pope.

But, some adherents of capitalism are going to find it difficult to assimilate the Pope's view that it is "unfortunate" that industrialization has been accompanied by a system which "considers profit as the key-motive for economic progress, competition as the supreme law of economics, and private ownership of the means of production as an absolute right."

These views are, indeed, widely held in the Western world and will find ardent defenders on principle. But, few enlightened capitalists will admit they believe in the concluding thought of that sentence:

"As an absolute right that has no limits and carries no corresponding social obligation."

Though irresponsible capitalism is not unknown in American history, most American businessmen today would argue that, as far as they are concerned, it is a thing of the past, if not in fact, then in ideal.

They would argue further that the recent history of capitalism in American has been one of increasing social responsibility, admittedly sometimes through the force of government regulation, and that irresponsible capitalism would be as much a danger to this nation as any other "ism."

Democrat Pick-ups

It was the day of her bridge club and the woman, wishing she had some flowers, looked out the window and saw five little daffodils blooming in her neighbor's yard. Although she wasn't at home, the woman was sure the neighbor wouldn't care if she took the flowers for her party. So she went out, reached through the fence, picked the little daffodils, which happened to have very short stems, and took them in the house.

The only vase she could find small enough, was still too large. She stuffed it with paper and worked with the little short stems to get them arranged until they looked all right.

A short time later she went out in the yard for something on the south side of the house, and there blooming in abundance were her own daffodils with great long stems, that she had not been able to see from her window and didn't know were in bloom. —H. L.

Other Unions Asked To Heed Pickets

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Federation of Television and Radio Artists asked fellow craft unions today to respect its picket lines and for the first time urged cameramen, stagehands and other employes to stay away from their jobs at the three major networks.

The technicians, who with supervisory personnel have maintained national programming since the AFTRA performers strike began a week ago, gave no clear response to the appeal.

It came Monday from Donald F. Conaway, national executive secretary of AFTRA, after the breakdown of talks at Washington between the union and ABC, NBC and CBS. Returning to New York, Conaway said negotiations had reached an impasse and that "the ball is in management's court now."

"We will urge everyone in radio and television to respect our picket lines," he said.

No direct negotiations were scheduled. Federal mediator William E.Simkin said he would call the parties back to Washington as soon as there was an indication that progress could be made.

At issue is a wage offer that Conaway called "insulting" and a "backward movement." A network spokesman said it was a reduction in basic salary, but he said an increase in fees would keep the money package at the same level.

Conaway charged the networks had sliced $25 off an original offer of $300-a-week basic wages. The 18,000-member union is seeking base pay of $325 a week and a higher percentage of commercial fees for about 100 local newscasters at network-owned stations.

The seven-day-old strike's personality issue — newscaster Chet Huntley's decision to cross picket lines while his NBC teammate David Brinkley respects them — added a new chapter Monday.

"Chet is doing what he thinks is right," Brinkley said in Chicago where both newsmen accepted awards from the National Association of Broadcasters. "And I'm doing what I think is right. He hasn't asked me to support his stand."

"I'll go back to work when the strike is over," he added.

Brinkley gave his partner a "good morning, Chet" as he mounted the rostrum to make his acceptance speech, then cracked, "I am usually unable to say anything at all until I've heard a commercial."

Huntley, an AFTRA member, has argued that the union gives inadequate representation to newsmen and is concerned mainly with "singers, actors, jugglers, entertainers and comedians whose problems have no relation to ours."

To Abolish Office

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Dr. Bill Bassore, a professor at Southwest Missouri State College, defeated Paul Allen White, Greene County school superintendent, 5,906 to 2,134 and said he will resign so the office can be abolished.

Missouri law permits a county to abolish the office if it is vacant. Bassore campaigned in favor of doing away with it.

Republicans Pick Up Three Seats

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Republicans picked up three seats on the St. Louis Board of Aldermen in Tuesday's election, but failed to win the top prize as Democrats continued their domination of city government.

Donald Gunn, the Democratic president of the Board of Aldermen, rolled to an easy victory and third term in the top contest on the ballot.

But Republican leaders hailed their gains on the board as a sign of the party's resurgence in St. Louis.

Mayor A. J. Cervantes, a Democrat, has two years remaining on his term.

Gunn, who carried all 28 wards, won over Republican Theodore J. Fischer in unofficial returns, 56,737-24,963. The vote was considered light.

The Republicans had only one seat on the Board of Aldermen going into Tuesday's election. Fred W. Haag, a GOP incumbent in the 12th Ward, scored an easy victory over Democrat Norman Kjar, 2,996-1,991.

In the sixth and 14th wards, Republicans upended Democratic incumbents. In the sixth, Lee W. Weber, ousted William L. O'Toole, 2,171-1,873, while in the 14th ward, Raymond Summers scored a 2,069-1,533 victory over Jack L. Koehr.

In the 16th Ward, where the incumbent did not seek re-election, Joseph L. Badaracco, a Republican, scored a two-to-one victory over Eugene Worn, a Democrat.

Democrats reelected to the board:

Leo J. McLaughlin, Joseph W. B. Clark, Joseph W. Martino, James E. Geisler, Lawrence E. Woodson, Edna Brown, Anthony T. Mascazzini, and Nathaniel J. Rivers.

Democrats elected to the board for the first time were Samuel Kennedy and Brendan Ryan.

Latin Club Hears Lucy Lena Speak

The night of March 30 served as the date for the Smith-Cotton Latin Club's monthly meet. Rick Belt, president, called the meeting to order promptly at 7:30 p.m.

A very humorous skit, "Caesar and Cleopatra" served as the first half of the program of the evening. Lloyd Knox and Cheryl Wahrenbrock portrayed the leading characters, while Charles Stanley, Leland Sellers and Bill Woolery acted as servants.

Miss Luci Lena, this year's foreign exchange student, then spoke to the group on her native land of Italy. She allowed members to ask questions concerning her country, and thus explained about the draft, school, holidays, music, dancing and summer in her native land, concluding this period by saying that American teenagers were very much like herself and her Italian friends. She commended the students for their generosity, enthusiasm, and friendliness, three qualities that she admires very much in Americans.

Luci then passed around various interesting post cards picturing her home town of Reggio Emilia, named in honor of the Roman emperor Marcus Aurelius. She mentioned the recent flood in Florence, and how students from her school in Italy went there to aid in the recovery of the many mud-soaked books.

Slides were then shown, portraying the beautiful aspects of Italy, from the famous Coloseum of Rome and the ruins of the temple of Venus, to a beautiful country villa. This concluded the meeting of the evening. John C. Allen is club sponsor.

Glory All Gone Now

Futile Practice Sessions Held In Private By Hogan

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The lonely little man crouched unnoticed on the practice green, stroking putt after putt.

The gallery rushed and eddied around him, flowed over the Augusta National course to gain a glimpse of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer.

And he was alone again.

His only gallery was a vast sea of backs.

A little more than a decade ago crowds by the thousands hung on his every shot. The putter in privacy was Ben Hogan, winner of four Opens, two Masters, two PGA's, the British Open and the unchallenged emperor of all golf.

Now the crowds stomped after new kings.

Hogan kept putting, trying to sink dinky little putts most other pros don't worry about.

"I worry about 'em all," Hogan said, and he has reason to.

"I just can't get the ball in the hole anymore," the 54-year-old Hogen added. "It's my nerves, that's all."

He putted again. It was almost embarrassing to watch the three-foot try fall short. Hogan shook his head, grimaced and tried again.

Another miss. Hogan looked up at the sky, despairingly. Then he sank a short one, and grinned, his teeth gleaming in contrast with his tanned skin.

Hogan tried a longer putt, missed and returned to his three-footers.

Hour after hour the balding old champion kept putting, but his accuracy didn't improve.

Finally he quit and said "I don't think it would make any difference if I hit a million balls. I just can't seem to do anything about it.

"I've tried about everything and it doesn't help," he added. "But all I can do is keep trying.

"My legs were too sore for me to play today, so I just putted, but it didn't do much good."

Hogan played a practice round Monday and the rolling Augusta National layout took its toll of the once-feared Hawk, who hasn't been in a tournament since the U.S. Open nearly a year ago.

Hogan rarely plays anywhere anymore, partly because he is almost ashamed of his putting.

He once said that sometimes he worries so much about his putting that he is afraid he'll freeze in front of a big gallery, unable to even hit the ball.

Hogan didn't have to worry about that Tuesday. There wasn't any gallery.

St. Louis Hawks Have Backs To Wall

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks, their backs to the wall, try to cool off the hot-shooting San Francisco Warriors in the third game of the National Basketball Association's western division playoff in St. Louis Wednesday night.

Coach Bill Sharman's Warriors, who won the western division's regular season title, take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven playoff into the game at Kiel Auditorium.

"We played awfully well the first two games," Sharman explained after arriving in St. Louis. But, he added, "we still managed only to skin by. I look for things to get tough here."

Player-coach Richie Guerin of the Hawks won't say how he plans to stop the high-scoring San Francisco team in St. Louis. Whatever the strategy, Guerin feels the key is to stop the Warriors' fast break. If St. Louis can stop the fast break, Guerin says, the Hawks can cool off San Francisco's hot shooting.

Sharman admitted that San Francisco in the first two games got many close, open shots. But as for the running game, he said, "we've been working on it all year and it was good earlier when we had a 10-game lead. Then injuries hit and for some 22 games we didn't have our team.

"Now we're back together again and the boys have been clicking real well. But I think the Hawks help this sort of attack because they like to gamble on the boards. Even Rod Thorn and Len Wilkens (back court men) like to go for the boards and that gives us a chance to break fast. . ."

Guerin, who had only eight men available for a scrimmage Tuesday, hopes at least to partially cool off Rick Barry. The San Francisco sophomore has averaged 43.5 points in two playoff games against St. Louis.

Rookie Dick Snyder and Tom Kron were called to active duty with their reserve units recently, thus missing the scrimmage.

In Saturday's 143-136 San Francisco victory, Barry scored 47 points. Guerin said he benched St. Louis rookie Lou Hudson because Barry was getting away from him. However, Hudson managed 24 points in 30 minutes. Joe Caldwell, who replaced Hudson, scored 18 points and managed at least to slow Barry down.

"It was a difficult decision to keep Hudson out," Guerin said, "but I explained to Lou . . . we pulled back even with San Francisco while Caldwell was in, so I didn't want to change anything."

The fourth game of the series will be played Saturday night at Kiel Auditorium. The teams return to San Francisco for a fifth game Monday night if necessary.

Clay And Patterson Meet Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson are heading for another collision at Las Vegas Nev., April 25 in what figures to be Patterson's last shot at the heavyweight title and the unbeaten champion's last fistic stand before his showdown with the U.S. Army.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali, signed Tuesday to defend against Patterson in the desert gambling mecca, where he battered the former champion for 11 rounds 1½ years ago before winning by a technical knockout in the 12th.

The return meeting was shifted from Detroit to Las Vegas after negotiations broke down with the Detroit promoting group last week. A threatened lawsuit to prevent the Las Vegas bout failed to come off Tuesday in Detroit but Eddie D. Smith, attorney for the E&J Sports Club, said his client still may go to court.

"I'm sure this is the end of the road," Clay said at the signing ceremony in a New York hotel. He urged the public to come out "to witness this living legend and see this beautiful machine in action."

The 25-year-old champion faces induction into the Army on April 28 after failing to gain exemption as a minister of the Black Muslim religious sect. He has hinted, however, that he may risk going to jail rather than report for induction.

"I have made up my mind," he said, "but I will only answer to the government."

Clay said he thought Patterson, only man ever to lose the heavyweight crown (to Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in 1959) and then regain it, "should have another chance for my title before the induction comes off."

Patterson, who has reeled off a string of knockout victories since being stopped by Clay, flattened Britain's Henry Cooper in four rounds last year at London. Clay was unable to knock out Cooper in two tries.

"I am very happy to be able to get another chance," said Patterson, who complained of an ailing back after his unsuccessful challenge in November, 1965. "I will do everything I can to win."

Promoter Harold Conrad, representing Championship Sports, Inc., and Main Bout, Inc., was in Las Vegas today to select training sites and complete arrangements for the 15-round fight at the Convention Center.

For Baseball Defeat

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Last week Albuquerque Rio Grande High School baseball player Marvin Pohl hit a home run off a pitch thrown by his younger brother, Mike Pohl, who attends Albuquerque West Mesa High.

It helped Rio Grande to a 10-0 victory in which senior Marvin Pohl was the winning pitcher and Mike Pohl, a junior, was the loser.

The tables were turned Tuesday when the two teams met again.

Mike Pohl cracked a game-winning single off Marvin Pohl, who was relief pitcher, and West Mesa won 7-6.

Marvin Pohl attends Rio Grande because West Mesa, a new school, doesn't have a senior class yet.

GOLF'S BIG THREE also have occasional problems as pictured here. From left, Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player. None like to miss an important shot, but when it does happen they react angrily.

Nicklaus Might Have The Mumps

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Does he or doesn't he? Even his doctor doesn't know for sure.

The question involves Masters champ Jack Nicklaus and whether he has a case of the mumps.

"I don't know," Nicklaus said as he put the finishing touches on his preparations for the Masters Tournament that starts Thursday.

"I just don't know. My doctor doesn't know. No one knows. I was exposed to it about two weeks ago when I visited Gardner Dickinson. His kids have it.

"The incubation period isn't yet past. I may have it, but I don't think so. I don't think it's a problem."

Nicklaus, a three-time champion and the only man to score successive victories in this prestigious tournament, is favored to retain the famed green jacket that goes to the winner — if the mumps don't sideline him. Even without the health problem he's having difficulties.

"I'm not putting well, I'm not chipping well. I'm not driving well," he complained Tuesday after a practice round with former amateur champion Deane Beman.

Nicklaus said he shot "about a 73" over the 6,980-yard, par 72 Augusta National Course, and Beman had a 71. Gary Player said he didn't keep score, but his caddy said he had a 68.

Arnold Palmer said he had "about a 70 or 71. I'm playing pretty well and satisfied with my game."

Nicklaus said he was still having troubles but was driving a little better.

The 210-pound strongboy from Columbus, Ohio, as expected, named Palmer as his chief threat.

"I always figure if I can beat Arnie, I can win. And Arnie figures if he can beat me, he can win," Nicklaus said.

Palmer, the only four-time champion of the event, agreed.

"I don't think there are any two people in the world who enjoy beating each other more than Jack and I do," said Palmer.

Between them, the two have won seven of the last nine Masters, and the last five in a row.

"It's a big hitters' course," explained Player, the little South African who won it in 1961. "You have to say that players like Nicklaus and Palmer have an advantage."

Other favorites in the field of 83 include U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, veteran Julius Boros, Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer.

Boros, two-time National Open champ, has won two tournaments already this season. Sanders, was runner-up in last week's Greenboro Open, and rewer has played exceptionally well all spring.

In addition to Player, top foreigners include lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand, a former British Open champ; Australian Bruce Crampton; Spanish Open champ Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina; former British Open champ Kel Nagle of Australia; George Knudson of Canada, who took individual honors in the last Canada Cup competition; Japanese Open champion Chen Ching-Po of Taiwan, and Hideyo Sugimoto of Japan.

The first twosome is scheduled to go off Thursday at 10 a.m., EST.

Kibenka Favored To Win One-Mile Race

DONCASTER, England (AP) — Kibenka was favored to win the one-mile Lincolnshire Handicap today, the race on which the first Irish Sweepstakes of the season is based.

The sweepstakes used to be based on the Grand National Steeplechase, due to be run at Aintree Saturday.

Kibenka was rated the 10-1 favorite in a field of 26 in the latest callover for the Lincolnshire. Lucky Biscuit was the second choice at 11-1 and Christmas Review the third choice at 12-1.

Knockout Is Waved At Clay

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Beefy George Chuvalo is waving a new three-round knockout under Cassius Clay's nose in a bid for a rematch with the heavyweight champion.

Chuvalo, 217-pound Canadian, chopped down Willie Besmanoff Tuesday night about as soon as he could catch the 198-pound German-born ring veteran, trying a comeback.

Besmanoff kept out of reach in the opening round and scored with several light jabs. But Chuvalo, bent on winning his 11th straight bout since a loss to Floyd Patterson, sent Besmanoff reeling midway of round two with combination punches.

Early in the third round a sweeping left hook sent Besmanoff down for an eight-count. He got up and was able to weather another barrage before a right felled him again for the full count.

About 3,000 fans saw the bout at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Chuvalo, of Toronto, said after his victory that he wants another shot at Clay, who outpointed him in 15 rounds in their first meeting. If he can't get Clay, he said, Chuvalo would like to meet Henry Cooper for the British heavyweight crown.

Chuvalo's record now is 45 wins, 12 losses and two draws. Besmanoff, who makes his home now at Indialantic, Fla., has won seven and lost two since launching a comeback last summer.

No Races At Aqueduct Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — There was no racing today at Aqueduct, scene of many of the country's famous thoroughbred races, and it appeared that Thursday would be a dark day, too.

The New York Racing Association, which operates the Big A, canceled today's card when not a single entry was received Tuesday. Entries normally are made one day ahead.

The boycott or strike by horse owners and trainers resulted from the action of the New York members of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association in voting to withhold entries as a protest against the state legislature's failure to approve a bill that would increase purse money about $3.5 million for the year.

Jack Dreyfus, Jr., master of Hobeau Farm and acting president of the New York chapter of the HBPA, said the horsemen had "no plans for entering horses until we get an agreement on purse increases."

"We hate to have to do this," Dreyfus said. "But all our reasonable efforts have failed. Apparently the leigslators don't seem to understand the plight of the horsemen who produce the show."

The horsemen contended they need bigger purses to offset their increased operating costs. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller had approved the measure, which had been passed by the Senate, but it died in an Assembly committee Sunday when the legislature adjourned for the year.

Of each dollar wagered, the state takes 10 per cent and the track five per cent for operating costs, including purse money, which amounted to $16 million last year.

The bill, which was not passed, would have reduced the state take to 9½ per cent with the one-half per cent allocated to increased purses.

Lance Alworth Signs Contract For 1967

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Lance Alworth, leading pass receiver in the American Football League last season, signed his 1967 contract Tuesday with the San Diego Chargers.

Terms of the star flanker's contract were not announced, but sources estimated Alworth will receive about $75,000.

Alworth, who pulled in 73 passes for 1,383 yards and 13 touchdowns in 1966, suffered hairline fractures in both hands and a pulled hamstring muscle during the year.

Bob Brown Meets Equal In Maynard

Bob "Bad Boy" Brown found his match, Tuesday night, when Earl Maynard of Barbados, West Indies, put the finishing touches on him. Brown was unable to continue for the fourth fall period and gave up because of what Maynard had done to his leg.

Maynard took the death match, no time limit, when Brown gave up after the bell rang. Maynard took the first fall in six minutes and five seconds; Brown won the second in five minutes and 30 seconds; Maynard took the third when he reversed the attack and Brown became a victim of his own folly in 22 minutes.

In the third fall, Maynard had been beaten around and was lying on the canvas when Brown climbed the ropes and made a mad dive at Maynard, his intention to put his knee in Maynard's mid-section. Instead, Maynard rolled over and Brown came crashing down on the ring floor with his knee. Maynard lost no time in moving in and putting on a reverse Boston Crab, pulling the leg and knee backward. Brown couldn't stand the pressure and gave up.

When the bell rang to start the fourth fall period, Brown couldn't get up and he was counted out, and Maynard was declared the winner. Brown, when feeling came back into the leg, took a swing at Referee Richard Moody. He tossed Moody around like a rubber ball on the end of a string. Maynard moved back in and went to Moody's rescue. But Moody went after more and again was on the receiving end. It was finally broken up, but not until Moody had all he wanted from the tough Brown.

Lord Littlebrook of London, England, gave a good account of his talents when he beat French Larue of Paris, France. Larue won the first fall in 11 minutes and 25 seconds with a series of drop kicks and press. Littlebrook took the second in three minutes and 35 seconds using the judo-chop and a press. Drop kicks followed by a press won for Littlebrook in seven minutes.

Victor Rivera and Ricky Hunter went 15 minutes to a draw in their one-fall match.

Sonny Meyrs beat Guillotine Gordon in their one-fall 20-minute time limit match using a judo chop and a press. The match went 14 minutes and 40 seconds.

The next wrestling matches are scheduled for Tuesday, April 8.

Tigers Lose Game In Extra Innings

The Smith-Cotton Tigers were downed in an extra-inning baseball contest 4-3 by Columbia Hickman Tuesday in Columbia.

At the end of the regulation seven innings of play, the score stood at 3-3. The Tigers batted first in the eighth and failed to get a hit. Hickman came through with a run in the bottom half, however, to end the game.

Terry Arnold was credited with the loss for the Tigers. Crim took the win for Columbia.

Hurlers for S-C included Mike Kraxberger who went four innings with eight strikeouts; Jerry Morris, three innings and one strikeout; and Terry Arnold, one inning and one strikeout. For Columbia, Ray Aslin, five innings and three strikeouts; Crim, three innings and three strikeouts.

The Tigers will see action again Friday and Saturday, meeting Joplin, Springfield Glendale and Springfield Hillcrest.

Pirates Unveil New Best Hitter

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The slugging Pittsburgh Pirates, not satisfied with having the top hitter in the National League last season, have unveiled their candidate for the best hitter in the league.

He is catcher Hal Smith, known more for his defensive abilities with the St. Louis Cardinals before a heart ailment sidelined him midway through the 1961 season.

Smith, who will be 36 on June 1, took bat in hand Tuesday and singled to start a three-run rally that stopped the Boston Red Sox 3-1 in an exhibition game at Fort Myers, Fla.

The club indicated he might see action at the plate and behind it during the season if the Pirates' catching staff does not improve on its disappointing spring performance.

It would be quite a comeback for Smith, who hit .258 in 5½ seasons with the Cardinals before coaching for them one season, managing in the minor leagues two years and coaching with the Pirates in 1965-66.

Pittsburgh called on him once before when injury struck its catching staff in 1965, but he went hitless in three at-bats in four games.

The Pirates, whose Matty Alou led the league at .342 last year, overlooked Jim Pagliaroni and Jesse Gonder for Smith, who opened the eighth inning with a single, and George Spriggs later followed with a two-run triple.

Tommy Sisk pitched one-hit ball for five innings for Pittsburgh, but Dennis Ribant finished up for the victory. Darrell Brandon hurled seven scoreless innings for Boston, giving up four infield hits, before the Pirates jumped on Dennis Bennett.

Baltimore relied on old-reliable Frank Robinson to touch off their attack that beat Washington 7-4 at Pompano Beach, Fla. He drove in three runs with a home run and a double. Dave McNally of the Orioles and Jim Hannan of the Senators each allowed one run in six inning stints.

Jim Northrup of Detroit brought home five runs, three with a triple in an 11-run third inning that crushed the New York Mets 14-1 in Lakeland, Fla. Mickey Lolich, Johnny Podres and Orlando Pena stopped the Mets, whose Ron Swoboda homered.

Gary Bell, Jack Kralick and John O'Donoghue stopped the San Francisco Giants on four hits and came away with a 1-0 triumph at Stockton, Calif. One of the Indians' seven hits was a run-scoring double by Larry Brown.

Don Sutton sparkled with a three-hitter for seven innings while Jim Hickman and Al Ferrara homered and the Los Angeles Dodgers outslugged Houston 10-6 at Oklahoma City, Okla. Jim Wynn homered for the Astros.

Tim Talton's bases loaded single broke a ninth-inning tie and handed Kansas City a 6-5 victory over Cincinnati at Bradenton, Fla.

The Chicago White Sox outhit Minnesota 17-14 and outscored the Twins 12-7 at Sarasota, Fla. Tommie Agee hit his sixth homer of the spring for the White Sox and Tommie McCraw his first while Andy Kosco connected for the Twins.

The New York Yankees pelted Bob Bruce for four runs in the fifth inning and beat the Atlanta Braves 5-3 at West Palm Beach, Fla. Ray Barker's two-run hit was the big blow in the rally.

Bob Tolan's two-run single sparked a five-run seventh-inning uprising against Jim Bunning and sparked the Cardinals to a 6-4 triumph over Philadelphia at St. Petersburg, Fla., in a night game.

The Chicago Cubs and California Angels were rained out at Anaheim, Calif.

CHANCE TO HIT IT BIG

Wide Open Race For NL Title

NEW YORK (AP)—The National League looks like a wide-open scramble again this year with the San Francisco Giants the pick in this corner to win over the favored Pittsburgh Pirates and the Atlanta Braves in another tight finish.

If there is any firm conviction about what is to be expected in October, it is the notion that the Los Angeles Dodgers will not repeat without Sandy Koufax. If Walter Alston does it again, he should be named manager of the century.

Juan Marichal figures to be Mr. Big of the pitchers, with Koufax in the television booth, and Willie Mays appears headed for a super season. The Giants just missed last year, losing to the Dodgers, but they beat out the Pirates by 1½ games and took their season series 11-7.

Granted that the addition of Maury Wills, Juan Pizarro and Dennis Ribant should improve Pittsburgh, the Pirates still do not have a solid pitching staff. Atlanta closed with a rush in 1966, but their pitching also is questionable.

The Braves have the power to blast the league apart and the Pirates have the steady hitting and necessary tight defense, but pitching still is the big thing in baseball.

Back of the front three, we would toss St. Louis, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Cincinnati in a hat. Take your pick. Houston, Chicago and New York are the "other league" of the National although the Astros could get tough.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. San Francisco
2. Pittsburgh
3. Atlanta
4. St. Louis
5. Philadelphia
6. Los Angeles
7. Cincinnati
8. Houston
9. New York
10. Chicago

It will be up to Marichal, Gaylord Perry, Bobby Bolin, Lindy McDaniel and possibly Ray Sadecki to pitch the Giants to the pennant despite a weakness at shortstop. Mays and his younger outfield mates, plus Willie McCovey, Jim Ray Hart and Tom Haller must provide the bang.

If Wills can regain his old Dodger form and avoid leg injuries, he will make the Pirates' attack even more formidable. With Maury on base and men like Willie Stargell, Roberto Clemente and Donn Clendenon to drive him around, Pittsburgh should score plenty of runs.

The trick will be to keep the other club away from the plate. Much depends on the development of Tommie Sisk, Steve Blass and Woody Fryman. Pizarro, only 8-6 with the White Sox, could be the key.

Atlanta has a home run boom in Joe Torre, Hank Aaron, Mack Jones, Rico Carty and Felipe Alou. If Denis Menke and Woody Woodward firm up as a solid short-second combo, it will be easier for pitchers like Tony Cloninger, Ken Johnson, Denny Lemaster and the youngsters.

Without Koufax the Dodgers are just another ball club. They scramble for runs and should get more with Bob Bailey added to the attack. But they no longer have that big man to act as a stopper every fourth day.

Hull's Knee Healed And Ready Now

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Hull's left knee and Montreal's right side are in good shape — and that means trouble for the underdog Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers in Thursday night's National Hockey League playoff openers.

Hull, whose 52 goals led Chicago to its first regular-season title, reported his ailing knee "feels good" after working out Tuesday in preparation for the Black Hawks' Stanley Cup playoff opener against the third-place Leafs in Chicago.

Meanwhile, the runner-up Canadiens, who entertain fourth-place New York in the first game of another best-of-7 semifinal series, worried over an over-abundance of right wingers after all hands showed up healthy for a bruising, 90-minute scrimmage.

Hull sat out the Black Hawks' final three games after injuring his knee March 28 in a game against Detroit. "I really won't know how strong the knee is until I get hit," the blond superstar said.

Montreal's defending Cup champions were at full strength for the playoffs after overcoming a wave of injuries that besieged them until the final weeks of the season. Once healthy, they stormed to a second-place finish, losing only one of their final 16 starts and finishing with six straight victories and an 11-game unbeaten string.

Now, with each club permitted to dress 19 players for the playoff games, Coach Toe Blake must decide upon one of three extra forwards — left wing Dick Duff, checking specialist Jim Roberts and center Garry Peters.

"I've already got five right wingers," Blake said. "So I'd be inclined to lean to Duff. He's a money player, but then Roberts always plays well against New York."

The Rangers are counting on a right-winger, 36-year-old Bernard (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, to provide the upset spark against his former club.

Chicago is the early favorite to take the Cup, with Montreal rated the second choice and Toronto third. The Rangers are 6-1 outsiders to survive in their first playoff appearance since 1962.

Air Pollution Control Mechanism Wanted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A U. S. Senate Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution asked St. Louis experts Tuesday what was being done to coordinate anti-pollution efforts in the area.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, indicated the Senators were aware of the tremendous problems confronting Missouri and Illinois in solving the metropolitan St. Louis air and water pollution problems.

Sen. Muskie said that if the states could achieve an interstate air pollution control mechanism it could serve as a model for the nation.

EDWARDS, FRANK W., TO OUR FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS, a heartfelt "Thank You" seems so inadequate for so many kindnesses extended us in the loss of our dear husband father and brother. Missouri Farmer

Uses Egyptian Technique To Refurbish Farm Land

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — Since the time of Joseph, the Nile River has flooded each year to refurbish the river land with water and silt and boost Egyptian farm production.

In southwest Missouri, Eugene M. Poirot, 68, borrows this technique to grow bumper crops on land that a generation ago brought farmers a bare living.

For Poirot, the Nile is Little Coon Creek, a sluggish meandering stream searching its way through the rolling country for the Spring River.

But in winter and early spring it can turn into a swollen, gushing torrent. This is when Poirot captures part of the excess water in ponds to use when the rains fail and the broiling Missouri sun threatens to shrivel the crops.

"This land has come through the whole sequence of poverty farming — drought, depression, everything," Poirot said. "We're doing a good job of farming now by returning the plant food to the soil and supplying water."

In 1966, southwest Missouri was a drought disaster area. Only 23 inches of rain fell, compared to the normal 48. By pumping excess creek water into an 11-acre pond, Poirot irrigated 270 acres. His corn yielded 125 bushels an acre, and a field of green beans netted him $85 an acre.

"That isn't disaster," Poirot grinned.

Most irrigation in the United States involves drawing of water from deep wells or directly from amply supplied streams. Neither works in southwest Missouri. Poirot believes he has a cheap, simple method of turning poor land and deficient rainfall into riches for his community. It could be the key to industrial development as well.

It involves a system of ponds and dams.

About a year ago Poirot and area business leaders formed the Ozark Agricultural and Industrial Development Corp. Their proposed development area includes 2.1 million acres and extends into portions of Kansas and Oklahoma.

"If we can develop irrigation by using water usually wasted in runoffs," Poirot said, "we can have more additional income in a year than one of the dams would cost."

Poirot insists farmers need a cheap method of irrigation. most devices cost from $20,000 to $30,000. Poirot's total investment for irrigating up to 300 acres is $6,000.

"This has to be so cheap the guy without money can do it," Poirot said. "The rich guy doesn't need it."

Poirot's ponds are simply holes scooped out of the earth by bulldozers. The dams are earthen. Water is pumped from Coon Creek at the rate of 2,500 gallons a minute by an old mine pump which cost $270. It is powered by a battered tractor operating a belt-driven pulley. The water is forced uphill through a large steel pipe into the pond.

When Poirot is ready to irrigate—perhaps months later—he opens a large valve and the water rushes through a system of cheap plastic pipes into the fields.

Robert Dale, publisher of the Carthage Press, is president of the development group and is a believer in Poirot's methods.

"We've been getting good support from our congressmen—both in Missouri and Kansas—and so far we haven't run into any snags," Dale said.

Legislature Members Oppose Invitation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two Kansas City members of the Missouri Legislature, Harold L. Holliday and Leon Jordan, spearheaded opposition Tuesday to the scheduled appearance of Sen. Russell Long, D-La., as the speaker at the Jackson Day Dinner April 15 at Springfield.

Holliday and Jordan, both Negroes, said the invitation to Long is an "affront and a gross insult to the tens of thousands of Negro Democrats in Missouri."

The legislators said that in view of Long's segregationist record they wrote to Delton L. Houtchens, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to determine the committee's involvement and to ask that the invitation be withdrawn.

Surprise Bill Will Affect Pharmacists

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A surprise bill to require pharmacists to have much more schooling and to prohibit them from advertising popped up Tuesday before the Public Health and Welfare Committee of the Missouri Senate.

Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, introduced it and said it was an effort to upgrade pharmacy.

Five bus-loads of students from the St. Louis College of Pharmacy jammed into the hearing room in opposition. The committee did not take a vote.

Sen. Blackwell originally introduced a bill which would enable a man to take the state examination for a license if he has worked in a pharmacy 20 years.

He substituted a bill which would require a pharmacist to have a bachelor's degree, three years of pharmacy school and a year of internship—eight years of training. Six are required now.

Blackwell said he included the ban on advertising because other professions can't advertise.

"If they want to be professionals, then let's make them professionals," the senator said.

Patty Duke In Really New Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's a nice girl like Patty Duke doing in a movie like "Valley of the Dolls"?

The question may well be asked when fans learn that the cheery, wholesome star of "The Patty Duke Show" on television is now starring as the dissolute, pill-chomping singer Neely O'Hara in the film version of Jacqueline Susann's best seller.

Here's how the character is described in ads for the movie: "Neely O'Hara — to her, stardom was too many minks, martinis and men."

Patty Duke???!

There she was, portraying a scene under the direction of Mark Robson in which she seduced her press agent, played by Martin Milner. What will her youthful television followers think when they see her new role?

"I hope they won't see it," she replied. "It's not going to be the kind of picture that tender minds should see."

Patty Duke is still petite, bouncy and wholesome under all that makeup. She is also 20 years old. Having been a professional actress for 13 of those years, she would like to continue in her craft. To do so, she realizes she must escape the double-images of the teen-age types — she played dual roles — of "The Patty Duke Show."

"I liked doing the series in the first couple of years," she recalled. "Then it was my whole life; I had no romances, I wasn't going to school. And the show was very helpful in getting me over that difficult period for a young performer — the transition from child to grown-up roles.

"The third year of the series was a drag. By that time I was married (to TV director Harry Falk) so I had an outside life of my own. I wasn't at all sorry to see the series end."

For almost a year after the show went off the air, Patty experienced something she had never known: a private life. She learned how to be a cook and housewife; oddly enough, she enjoyed the new life. But inevitably she felt the need to return to work. There was also an economic need.

"People used to tell me I would be able to retire when I was 21," she commented. "Not true." She found that her income during the high-earning three years in television was so shared by managers, agents, lawyers, accountants, etc., as to erase all dreams of retirement.

After deciding it was time to return to her career, Patty figured "Valley of the Dolls" would be the ideal image-breaking vehicle. But director Robson and producer David Weisbart understandably thought it would be preposterous to cast her in the sex-charged epic.

"Finally they agreed to talk to me," she said. "I must have done something right, because they wanted me to test for the role."

She was competing for the Neely O'Hara role with Barbara Parkins, Marlo Thomas and Kathy Hayes. Miss Parkins, a Fox contract player, was the apparent winner, but she inherited the Ann Wells role vacated by Candice Bergen. So now Patty is playing the not-so-nice Neely.

Sons of British monarchs do not inherit the title of Prince of Wales; it is newly created for each prince.

Delay Is Sought In Improvements

ST. LOUIS (AP)—In a move officials think is a first under Missouri tax laws, residents of a private street in St. Louis will seek a 10-year delay in taxes against improvements planned in the area.

Similar tax reliefs were accorded such improvements as the new Busch Memorial Stadium and Mansion House Apartments in downtown St. Louis.

A Missouri tax official said he would give serious consideration to the plan offered by residents of Windermere Place in the city's West end.

Financing Plan Is Repealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department opposed repeal of the new presidential campaign financing plan today but said constructive changes should be made.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler outlined the department's position in a letter to Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee as the Senate went into another day of debate on campaign aid.

Some senators are seeking to repeal the campaign financing plan by attaching a rider to a measure now before the Senate to restore the 7 per cent investment tax credit for business.

The financing plan, sponsored last year by Long, will permit taxpayers next year to earmark $1 of their 1967 income taxes to help finance the next presidential election campaign.

Fowler said enactment of the plan "was the first tangible step toward solving the problem of financing ever-mounting political campaign costs."

Its effect in future presidential campaigns, Fowler wrote, should help alleviate these problems: reliance of political parties on small groups of wealthy contributors and a lack of certainty that enough money will be available for full and free public discussion of campaign issues.

The nub of Long's revision proposal is a switch to direct federal appropriations instead of the income tax checkoff. Each major party would get $36 million.

Little 'Reward'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A burglar fled with only insurance papers after he banged away at a combination dial on a safe until it broke off. Police said the safe was unlocked.

Afgentines Give Turtle New Wheels

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentines last year dubbed their military regime "the armored turtle." Now an economic drive aims to put wheels under it.

The program is designed to push Argentina toward free enterprise. Some people think it could make or break the nine-month regime of Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania.

The "turtle" tag was a left-over from the civilian regime of President Arturo Illia, which Ongania toppled with a military coup last June 28.

Argentines had called the Illia government "the turtle" because they claimed it moved too slowly and did little. When Ongania brought the military to power and didn't take quick, visible action in the economic field the tag became "the armored turtle."

Ongania devoted the first months in office to securing his political grip. This included breaking down opposition from labor unions.

The General Federation of Labor — CGT — with some 2.5 million members, had wielded vast political power ever since Juan D. Peron built it into the backbone of his nine-year reign.

The CGT launched strikes and demonstrations against the Ongania regime after a brief wait-and-see interlude. It claimed the government plans would lead to massive unemployment.

President Ongania cracked down hard. He punished over 200,000 workers from state enterprises for joining in strikes. The penalties included suspensions and downgrading workers to lesser jobs.

The government, backed by the army, suspended the legal and labor rights of half a dozen big unions and froze funds of both the unions and their leaders.

The CGT bowed and called off a much heralded "plan of struggle."

The government also dissolved political parties and banned politics indefinitely. It made known that Ongania plans to rule for around 10 years.

"This is a government of aims, not of deadlines," Ongania said.

The CGT's backtracking last month wiped out the last pocket of political resistance.

It left Ongania with a free hand to turn to economic troubles.

Three months ago the general got rid of his first economics minister, Jorge N. Salimei, who was sharply criticized in many quarters.

Ongania replaced him with Adalbert Krieger-Vasena, a technician of solid reputation abroad as a free enterpriser. Krieger-Vasena has no open political trend within the generally conservative government.

The new minister set out immediately to win international confidence. The International Monetary Fund and U.S. and European investors pledged $400 million in aid.

The government devalued the peso 40 per cent, to 350 to the dollar. Free dealing in foreign currencies was resumed after three years of tight government controls.

The porcupine moves slowly by nature, but it is capable of running as fast as a man for short distances.

Drive Started To Collect Baby Teeth

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A St. Louis group has launched its semiannual, 10-week drive for contributions, and hopes to collect 10,000 baby teeth.

The drives, conducted since 1958 by the St. Louis Committee for Nuclear Information, will benefit "the baby tooth survey." It is described by officials as the only record anywhere of strontium 90 deposition in teeth which has continued without interruption in a scientific manner.

Since 1958 the drive has produced 250,000 baby teeth for research, an official said.

Hearnes Will Reject Any Tax Increases

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said Monday night as long as he is governor he will reject any tax increase unless it is shown to be "deserved and truly inevitable."

In a speech before the suburban Ladue district council, Hearnes said without naming names:

"Almost daily I hear statements made by some that we should do more. They urge expanded welfare services, more for this and for that. They are, in effect, urging that we impose more state taxes.

"If when, in my opinion, such course becomes necessary I am perfectly willing to assume that unpopular role and advocate such."

The mayors of Kansas City and St. Louis, along with others, have been pleading for more state aid for welfare and hospital services such as that which could be provided under title 19 of the Medicare program.

Contractors In For More Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — Profits and practices of defense contractors are coming under increased scrutiny from high government officials as purchase of war hardware accelerates toward $40 billion a year.

A Washington official said Monday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara had initiated what the official termed a "sub rosa study" of contractors' profit levels.

Asked at a news conference later Monday whether "the Defense Department has started a study of the profits of the defense industry in connection with the Vietnam war," McNamara said, "No, there is no substance to that whatsoever."

He said, "about five or six years ago we began a study of the profits of the defense industry which we are continuing to carry on in order to relate profit to performance."

Meanwhile, department and agency heads are reviewing procurement and property management programs of some contractors. In a little publicized memorandum last September, President Johnson ordered the examination of practices of contractors "which purchase supplies and equipment for which the government must pay or which have government owned supplies and equipment in their custody."

"Such contractors should observe the same policies prescribed for government agencies for avoiding duplication, eliminating frills, curtailing inventories, using excess property, and insisting upon full utilization of assigned equipment," Johnson told the officials.

The Defense Department last year handed out $38.3 billion in prime contracts, up sharply from the previous year's $28 billion. This year's total is expected to be even higher. Vietnam spending alone is nearing the $2 billion-am-onth level.

In previous periods of heavy defense spending, profits of some contractors soared. World War II is an example. From 1942 to 1946, the government recovered $11 billion in excess profits from defense contractors.

But the government's present profiteering control machinery operates in such a way that officials say it will be two years or longer before they can give even a vague estimate of any excess profits being realized from Vietnam-related outlays.

Infant Twins Found Dead In Container

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) —Two Missouri highway workers found newborn twin girls Monday in a plastic trash container along Interstate 55 near Cape Girardeau.

The infants had been dead about 12 hours, the Missouri Highway Patrol estimated.

People In The News

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Woody Allen's former wife, charging he held her up to public ridicule in his television routines, has filed a $1-million defamation of character suit against him and the National Broadcasting Co.

Allen and NBC were ordered Monday to produce tapes and scripts from the Johnny Carson and Perry Como shows in New York State Supreme Court in Manhattan Friday.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The search for Jim Thompson, missing American millionaire, was called off today.

Thompson, known as the "silk king" of Thailand because of his holdings in the industry, has not been seen since he went for a walk from a vacation cottage March 26.

A police official said, "There will be no more searches. We have not found a single clue in the last nine days."

LONDON (AP) — Two British television companies are dropping the adventures of Batman because of a slump in viewing figures.

"It has been an interesting entertainment fad," said a spokesman.

ABC-TV, which serves viewers on the commercial channel in the Midlands and north of England, is replacing Batman and Robin with a spy series. Rediffusion, which transmits in the London area on weekdays, says "the caped crusader will go by the summer."

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A Japanese photographer is off on the first leg of a 6,000-mile voyage to his homeland, hoping for better luck than he had last year when he crashed after 25 miles.

Ikuo Kashima, 36, set sail Monday in a 16-foot sloop loaded with food and water. He waved to well-wishers and promised to stay awake this time beyond Catalina Island.

Last April, Kashima's first attempt ended when he fell asleep and his sloop cracked up on rocks at the island's east end.

Gets Jail Sentence

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Erich Harasser, 28, was sentenced to three years in jail in Austria on charges he set two fires in his rooming house. Harasser is a fireman and he told the court he set the fires so he could show the fire department how good he was at fighting blazes.

World News In Brief

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — The three-year-old luxury liner Shalom, pride of Israel's merchant marine, is being sold to the German Hamburg-Atlantik Line because it failed to attract enough transatlantic passengers.

Meir Giron, general manager of Israel's national shipping company, Zim, said Monday the 24,000-ton liner will be turned over to the German line in November for $15 million — $6 million less than it cost to build at a French shipyard. He said the Shalom has been losing nearly $3 million a year on Haifa-New York route.

HONG KONG (AP) — The Hong Kong medical department warned today of a sharp increase in meningitis in this crowded British colony and tourist center.

A department spokesman said 16 cases of the disease, 5 of them fatal, had been reported in the first three months of the year compared with 10 cases in all 1966.

The spokesman said two of the cases were recent visitors to Communist China. Hong Kong newspapers have reported a meningitis epidemic in neighboring Kwangtung Province, with thousands of deaths.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — A nine-man Soviet trade mission left today after negotiating the first agreements for trade and diplomatic relations between Malaysia and a Communist country.

Victor Spandarian, leader of the Soviet group, said he expected diplomatic missions to be exchanged soon. The trade agreement includes a most-favored-nation clause on tariffs.

Malaysia, seeking new trade outlets after a reduction in British aid, will export rubber, tin, rare metals and tea to the Soviet Union. It will import machinery, heavy equipment, fertilizers and chemical products.

Dinner Guests See Plans For College

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—Almost 600 persons, who paid $100 a couple to attend a dinner Monday night, saw architectural designs of the Mid-America Nazarene College to be built on an 80-acre site in southeast Olathe.

The first phase of the project will include two dormitories, administration and library buildings and a chapel, of colonial America architecture.

Mrs. Robert Docking, wife of the Kansas governor, spoke at the dinner. She welcomed Nazarene college officials to Kansas and said another church-related college would benefit the state.

Clashes In Jury For Coppolino

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey and the prosecution have engaged in sharp clashes in selecting a jury for the Carl Coppolino murder case.

In his first questioning of jury candidates Monday, Bailey seemed intent on seating a panel willing to try Coppolino for one murder—not two.

Bailey dug in his grilling of prospective jurors for any opinions they might hold as a result of Coppolino's acquittal in December on a first-degree murder charge in Freehold, N.J.

The slender, 34-year-old anesthesiologist was found innocent of the 1963 murder of a former neighbor, retired Army Col. William E. Farber.

Coppolino is charged with killing his first wife, Carmela, Aug. 28, 1965, with an injection of succinylcholine chloride, a drug which can cause fatal paralysis.

Bailey asked each juror: "Do you accept the fact that he did not commit murder in New Jersey?"

The question prompted a vigorous exchange with State Atty. Frank Schaub who claimed loudly that the New Jersey verdict meant only that there was insufficient evidence for conviction.

Judge Lynn Silvertooth accepted Bailey's objection that the verdict meant Coppolino was innocent of that charge.

The two cases are allegedly linked by the mysterious drug and by the colonel's widow, Marjorie, 52, who testified in the New Jersey trial that she and Coppolino were lovers.

Grand juries in New Jersey and Florida indicted Coppolino after authorities said the exhumed bodies of the two victims contained traces of succinylcholine.

Autopsies were ordered after Mrs. Farber told Sarasota County Sheriff Ross Boyer that she was suspicious of the circumstances of the deaths. The causes of both deaths were listed initially as heart attacks.

Mrs. Farber followed the Coppolinos to Sarasota after her husband's death. Her report to the sheriff came after the doctor's marriage to his present wife Mary, 39, a wealthy divorcee within two months of Carmela's death.

The trial here opened with 34 newsmen in the 112-seat courtroom in rural Collier County. Silvertooth has placed them under strict regulation.

The judge banned all contact between trial principals—lawyers, jurors and witnesses and reoprters. The courtroom is locked except during recesses.

Because of previous news coverage in the case, Silvertooth granted a change of location to Naples from Sarasota, where the alleyed murder took place in the fashionable Coppolino home at Longboat Key.

At the conclusion of the first day of the trial a dozen would-be jurors had been excused—including the lone Negro called—either because they held opinions, could not vote the death penalty, or could not agree to a conviction based only on circumstantial evidence.

Dies Of Injuries

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Twelve-year-old William Wilson of St. Louis died Monday of injuries received last week when he was struck by a car in St. Louis.

The driver told police the boy darted in front of her auto from between parked cars. She was not charged.

California Hippies Surprise Officials

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Hippies in Southern California have a surprise for city officials of Taos, N.M.

Carl May, head of the Antidig-it-Dialing League here, said the mountainous community would be the site for a "supreme be-in" Aug. 20-25.

"We haven't contacted any "but we expect things to run smoothly."

May said about 20,000 were expected to "meditate, recite poems, sing and communicate with like-minded people" at Taos.

Taos has 2,163 residents.

NFO Members Take Cows To Slaughter

LEBANON, Mo. (AP)—Dairymen from 13 southern Missouri counties led their cows to slaughter Monday in the latest action by members of the National Farmers Organization to get a better price for their milk.

The theory, like that behind the NFO's withholding milk from the processor, is to create an artificial shortage, thereby bringing raw milk prices into line with its demands for two cents more per quart.

Cows were brought to the Rusty McClure farm, three miles west of Lebanon, where they were sold to meat packers. Approximately 350 cows, many of them choice Holstein producers, were disposed of.

Oren Lee Staley, president of the NFO, announced late last week that his members would start selling dairy cows for slaughter in an attempt to bring milk prices to farmers up 2 cents a quart.

Oregon has no official motto, but "The Union," which appears on the state seal, is considered the unofficial state motto.

AFTER THE REHEARSAL OF THIS SCENE in "The Comedians," Burton walked off the set saying: "This is a very eccentric way of making a living. I'm 41 years old, tottering around saying 'Good night, old man' to a child—in bed—in Paris. I must be out of my tete."

Springtime Fancies Changing

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In spring a young man's fancy used to turn to marbles — and yo-yos, tops, pogo sticks, stilts, roller skates, jump ropes, wagons and scooters.

He'd build a treehouse or, on bad days, play with a train in the basement.

Spring is a lot more complicated for boys these days.

The treehouses come prefabricated, with rope ladders and trap doors. And a model car racing set most likely has replaced the train.

"A lot of the old toys have gone the way of the old lamplighter," said a spokesman for F.A.O. Schwarz, the Fifth Avenue toy store. "There are better toys now, and there are a lot of other things to replace them, things like television.

"And you have to remember that many of the old toys and games required playing in the streets, which just aren't safe anymore.

"You used to be able to play in the street for half an hour before a car would come along. You can't do that anymore."

Schwarz still sells some of the toys of a generation ago, but they aren't major items.

Take yo-yos. One leading manufacturer went out of business last year.

You still can buy a sack of marbles for 10 cents or a big aggie for $1.75, and there are spindle tops, musical tops, diablo tops and a German one which has a spinning monorail.

Jump ropes have come back, with ball bearings in the wooden handles so the ropes won't tangle.

Pogo sticks are made of chrome-finished steel tubing, and stilts come in red enameled, rust-resisting steel with adjustable steps.

You can buy a treehouse at Schwarz for $198.50 or Ft. Apache, a ground haven for weary warriors, for $115.

Creative Playthings, another toy chain, offers a Daniel Boone cabin, a prefabricated rustic house of cedar slabs to be nailed together. It's $33.95.

The old-fashioned wagon has chain drive, construction sets are motorized, tic-tac-toe comes in a three-dimensional version.

Where 30 years ago there was a happy curly haired Shirley Temple doll, today there is wistful Sasha, a straight-haired, yellow-complexioned doll designed to represent a composite of children of all nations.

Monopoly, an old favorite, still is around. About 40 million sets of the game have been sold since it was introduced in 1933, and it still accounts for 20 to 30 per cent of the business of Parker Bros.

Middle Tennessee Leads Invitational

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Middle Tennessee led the Springfield State invitational golf tournament going into the final 18-hole round today.

It paced the field of seven teams after Monday's first round with an aggregate score of 289. Springfield followed with 296, Washington University of St. Louis 298, Lincoln of Missouri 301, Southwestern of Memphis 308, Rolla Mines 311, and William Jewell 314.

Art Kraft of Middle Tennessee had a 1-under-par 35-35—70 for medalist honors. Mike Williams of Springfield had the next best score of 33-38—71.

Warrensburg State Students 'Grounded'

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — Warrensburg State College students have been "grounded" at night as a result of disturbances last Wednesday and Thursday.

College officials issued an order Monday barring students from using automobiles on week nights between 1:45 p. m. and 6 a. m. Also, gatherings of more than four students outside campus buildings are prohibited.

Dr. Warren C. Lovinger, college president, said similar rules had been enforced before at the college.

"Through the unwarranted and disgraceful disturbances of last week, a group of rowdy students representing less than 5 per cent of the student body (of 9,000) have brought discredit to themselves, their fellow students, and the college," said the order.

14 Miners Killed In Explosion

NATAL, B.C. (AP) — An explosion in a coal mine Monday killed 14 miners and injured 10 others. Two miners were missing and believed dead in underground debris.

"I was walking into the mine," said Robert Clegg, 30, one of the injured. "All of a sudden a door came at me, and I saw a flash."

Clegg was one of 32 miners who entered the Balmer North Mine of Crows Nest Industries Ltd., half a mile east of here, for the evening shift moments before the blast occurred.

Mrs. Paul Chela, who lives 300 yards away, said it heaved debris 200 yards along the mountainside.

A huge cloud of black dust hung 200 feet over this southeastern British Columbia mining community for 20 minutes.

The cause of the explosion was not known.

Dr. Sparling East, one of three doctors who worked on the injured men at a hospital in Fernie, 25 miles west of here, said they had minor fractures and were covered with cuts and bruises.

The mine produces low-grade coal for export to Japan.

Gestido To Greet State Heads

By ROMAN JIMENEZ

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — President Oscar Gestido of Uruguay will undertake a greetings marathon at Carrasco Airport next week as heads of state arrive from all over the hemisphere.

While there is no fixed protocol for this kind of collective summit meetings, Gen. Gestido — who took office March 1 — has decided to be on hand at Carrasco, nine miles from downtown Montevideo, to shake hands with each arriving president.

Nineteen chiefs of state are scheduled to meet at Punta del Este April 12-14.

Diplomatic efforts are being made to convince Presidents Rene Barrientos of Bolivia and Francois Duvalier of Haiti to come. Gen. Barrientos has said he will not attend a meeting where his country's aspiration for an opening to the sea will not be considered. Duvalier is afraid if he leaves his country, a revolution will follow.

An inter-American presidential get-together was last held in 1956 in Panama.

Worried Uruguayan officials estimate that the first presidents will be arriving Monday. Most are scheduled to fly in on commercial jetliners. President Johnson will use his own plane.

Tentative plans call for them to be whisked some 90 miles to Punta del Este, the pleasant, easygoing summer resort where the summit gathering will be held.

Some will fly over in smaller planes, some in helicopters, and some will go by car over a splendid, panoramic road.

No special ceremonies are planned for the arrival of the presidents, but armed forces platoons will pay homage and a military band is rehearsing the anthems of all the nations.

Uruguayan authorities dismiss any idea that there may be violent demonstrations before and during the conference. However, there is a growing campaign by Communists to stage protests against it, and especially against Johnson's presence.

The whole Carrasco Airport area may be declared a military zone. Its approaches will be guarded by reinforced police and military detachments to prevent anyone except officials and accredited newsmen from entering.

The constitution of Liberia, African republic, is patterned after that of the United States.

Timing Devices Delay Launching Of ATS 2

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Problems with spacecraft timing devices have forced a 24-hour delay — until Wednesday night — in a space agency attempt to launch its second Applications Technology Satellite, ATS 2.

The launching aboard an Atlas-Agena rocket had been scheduled tonight, but trouble cropped up during a test. Officials said two timing locks, found to be operating, weren't supposed to start until after the ATS separated from the rocket in space.

The satellite is intended to develop advanced systems for improving weather forecasting, communications and space vehicle control. A second, smaller satellite aboard the rocket is to test a means of transferring heat from one part of a spacecraft to another.
